ICC Students Want More Classmates

Isothermal Community College student Wanda Waters told the Polk County Board of Commissioners Monday that more students are needed at the Polk campus.

Although enrollment has been increasing overall, the college dropped its day classes on the Polk campus due to light enrollment.

Waters and some other students "are talking to everyone who will listen," said ICC Polk campus director Carole Bartol.

Bartol said courses need at least ten to 12 students before the college considers them worthy of being kept on the course schedule. Some classes, such as chemistry and computer sciences, will always be offered only on the Spindale campus because the college cannot afford to duplicate the expensive equipment needed on the Polk campus.

But Bartol said she believes the students' awareness efforts can increase class sizes in most subject areas at ICC's Polk campus.

Meet Thursday

Tryon Valley Chapter 411 will meet Thurs., May 21 at 5 p.m. at the Lodge Hall on Markham Rd. Sister Louise Payton, WM; Secretary, Sister Betty Thompson.
