Tracey Cox Is New County Dispatcher

Polk County Emergency Dispatcher Tracey Cox brings seven years of experience and many hours of training in rescue dispatching with him to his new job.

Cox was a dispatcher for Henderson County for seven years, the past five of which he has been supervisor. And because he already lives on the Polk/Henderson line, he won't have to relocate to take over as director of all of Polk County's communication needs.

As Director for Dispatching, Cox maintains Polk County's 911 system, the EMS and Rescue Squads, the sheriff's department and the Saluda and Columbus Police Departments. In addition, four fire departments, Mill Spring, Columbus, Sunny View and Green Creek, fall under his jurisdiction.

Only the Tryon Police and Fire Departments are not part of the Polk County emergency dispatch system.

"I view this as a great growing opportunity. In dispatching it's hard to find someone who has been in dispatching long enough to be a director," Cox said.

Cox maintains the in-house data base—the 911 computer—out of his office on Ward St. in the Sheriff Department building. He replaces Ann Gibbs, who is moving to Georgia.
