Paintings On Display

A Trade Street Gallery exhibition of American paintings has just returned to Tryon from France. The exhibition was held in Quimperle, Brittany, May 1-10, 1992.

Artist, Paul Pourbaix of Four Columns Farm in Landrum, invited Mary Schweder of Trade Street Gallery to organize the exhibit which was to be a part of the international Art Exposition held during the first Quimperle Art Festival. The exposition "Peintres Americains" included work by Jeanne Parker of Tryon; Betty Clark & Rollie Erickson, Asheville; Lynne Tanner, Rutherfordton; Richard Powers, Conn.; Paul Pourbaix, Landrum; and Cynthia Edwards and Phelix Ludop of New York.

The paintings were selected by Mary Schweder and sent from Trade Street Gallery to Michael Maket, an Art Dealer in Paris. Mr. Maket, working together with Paul Pourbaix, arranged transport from Paris to Quimperle and installed the exhibition at Le Port de Pouldu.

Jeanne Parker of Tryon exhibited five acrylic paintings on canvas and all were sold.

The Quimperle festival will be an annual event and Mary Schweder of Trade Street Gallery has been invited to organize the American Paintings exhibition for 1993.

The paintings have been uncrated and are on display at Trade Street Gallery in Tryon.
