

WHY PROHIBIT COMPETITION

An amendment has been proposed to the existing workingmen's compensation law in Oregon making the method of imbursement...

This proposal would prohibit private insurance from carrying compensation assistance with private insurance companies...

The purpose of definite compensation laws to protect both employer and employee is generally accepted as beneficial to the parties interested and to society as a whole.

Insurance companies should be required to submit to any reasonable public regulation needful to make certain that the compensation contract to pay shall be paid with certainty and promptitude...

As a matter of fact, private competition is an assurance to the public that the officials in charge of the state compensation department and insurance funds will be more keenly alive to their responsibility...

vorably with private competition. The principle of compensation has been adopted by practically every state in the union, but only seven states—Nevada, Washington, Ohio, West Virginia, Oregon, Wyoming and North Dakota—have monopolistic state insurance funds.

This subject is of great public interest, for if the idea of monopolistic state fund insurance can be enforced it means that the state can enter into any line of industry it may desire to the exclusion of private citizens and taxpayers.

Beyond Calculation

It would be interesting to know the number of men and women who secured their high school training at Buie's Creek academy that have "made good" in the world.

A news story in Friday's Dispatch revealed the fact that Harvey Holleman industrial editor of the New York Commercial, national business newspaper, was the first boarding pupil to attend Buie's Creek academy 30 years ago.

County Agent E. S. Millsaps, Jr., of Raddolph county signed up 48 boys and girls in pig and poultry club work at a recent meeting for young folks held at the Farmer high school.

The gospel of better farming spreads gradually but surely. Farmers in Duplin county who planted grass last year are asked about the mixtures by other farmers; one man who built a self-feeder was asked to help build several others and so it goes—the good word given to one man in time goes to others.

THE TAX-EXEMPT BOND

Hon. L. J. Dickinson, congressman from Iowa, in a speech in the house of representatives, handled in a masterly manner a discussion in favor of the Green constitutional amendment to do away with tax-exempt bonds.

Mr. Dickinson pointed out that the credit of the United States and the welfare of agriculture will at all times be within the control of Congress if the amendment passes. It does not levy a tax on tax-exempt bond income. It gives "power to lay and collect taxes."

Professor Seligman of Columbia University points out that "where amount of tax-exempt securities is expanded by billions as in this country at present, the benefits of tax-exemption accruing to wealthy increase. They will have to pay in the shape of premium a continually diminishing sum, yet they will enjoy the same omission of tax."

Representative Dickinson points out that "the burdens of taxation ought to be equitably levied on all the people according to their ability to pay. It is of fair to permit privileged individuals to convert their property into tax-exempt securities and thus evade federal taxation."
