Later from Europe.
The London Standard reports that the British Government is determined to bring the Oregon question to a speedy termination.

The occasion for the discussion in Parliament alluded to was given by the part of Mr. Polk's inaugural address in which he claims for the United States an equal right to the Oregon territory.

There is not much difference of opinion among our countrymen as to the right of the United States to Oregon.

The House of Lords, Lord Aberdeen concluded some remarks by saying, "With the most anxious desire for peace, he still trusted that this question might be amicably concluded."

Hardly Carroll.—This notorious offender has been sentenced by the Superior Court of Franklin to be executed on Friday the 20th of May.

Cok, Wm. D. Mosely, formerly of this State, is the Louisiana nominee for Governor of Florida.

The New York Evening Post estimates the population of that city, at the present time, as follows:

Further from Mexico.
Arrival at New Orleans brings accounts from Mexico to the full of the present month.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs has recommended to Congress a recognition of the independence of Texas, considering it a lesser evil to Mexico than an extension in that direction of the sovereignty and power of the United States.

Mr. Shannon, the American Minister, has received notice from the Mexican Minister of Foreign Relations, of the termination of official intercourse between the two governments.

An American Squadron, consisting of the frigate Pamlico, sloop Falmouth, and brig Fairfield and Somers, was spoken in the Gulf of Mexico.

Madra Anna's trial was slowly progressing. Her health is represented as being very indifferent.

Virginia Elections.
The whole story is told in the annexed extract from the Norfolk Herald of Monday.

The University of Virginia at Charlottesville has been the scene of a serious riot.

The affair at Rio.—The National Intelligencer says: We have reasons to suppose that the Brazilian Government has not considered the brief misunderstanding between our Minister and his authorities on this occasion [the seizure of the Porpoise] as of sufficient consequence to be made a subject of remonstrance to this Government.

Antique and Modern.—In one of the letters of Mr. Locke, the Senior Editor of the Savannah Republican, who is travelling abroad, there is a description of a visit to the Museum at Naples where are deposited the articles dug from the ruins of the buried cities of Herculaneum and Pompeii.

The pride and boasting spirit of this 19th century stands rebuffed and humbled on entering this room. The ancients living in a small town—a mere village like Pompeii, had not only in common use all our articles of kitchen and other furniture, but their were of bronze, while many of ours are of iron and tin.

From the Numberers.
The last mail brought the distressing intelligence of the death of ROBERT S. MOORE, Purser of the U. S. Ship Vandalia.

South West Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F.
The following is a copy of a report put in circulation in this country a short time since, in from the proceedings in the British Parliament at a recent sitting.

Mr. John Stuart Wortley asked if there was any foundation for this paragraph, which he read from the Times of Thursday.

The Presse states that the fall of Santa Anna has exposed one of the basest projects which the unflinching ambition of Great Britain ever conceived.

Mr. Robert Peel believed the statement to be utterly without foundation. "Sir, I see a great many reports spread about with reference to the unflinching ambition of Great Britain."

Ejection from Office under the new dynasty.—On the evening of the 25th of March, Mr. Skinner, Assistant Postmaster General, going into his office, after 4 o'clock, found the following brief, pithy, and comprehensive Firman upon his desk:

Extract from the Journal of March 25, 1845.—"Ordered that Dr. N. M. Miller be appointed Third Assistant P. M. General, in the place of J. S. Skinner, removed."

Missionary Intelligence.—From the Missionary Herald, and other sources, we learn that the American mission in Nestora still presents a discouraging aspect.

From the Indian missions the principal intelligence relates to the triumphant death of a daughter of the celebrated Corn planter, of the Six Nations.

With a hue from this city to Boston, our advantages in respect to foreign intercourse will be less than if every steamer now sailing to and from Boston were removed for its arrival and departure to New York.

History of the State.—We regret to learn that no memorials of the History of the State are likely to be procured from the Hon. F. X. Martin, of Louisiana.

Great Sale of Cotton.—A house in this town received, on Saturday last, account sales of North Carolina Cotton in New York, at 12 1/2 and 14 cents.

The Bowery Theatre in New York was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of the 25th. This makes the fourth time the establishment has been burnt to the ground.

A man with a large family was complaining of the difficulty of supporting them all. "But," said a friend, "you have one big enough to help you now."
