Restoration and Preservation of the HAIR, by M. WISE & SON, of Virginia. A CARD.

WISE & SON, finding it altogether impossible to attend personally to the great number of daily applications, from all sections of the Union, for their remedy for Baldness, and for their celebrated HAIR TONIC, have found it necessary to appoint a General Travelling Agent, to visit different cities and towns throughout the United States, vesting him with authority to appoint subagents, to use and vend the Hair Tonic, and to apply the Restorative, and to put them into the hands of those he may appoint to operate wherever a sufficient number of patients in any town or neighborhood shall be obtained. Capt. GEORGE CALVERT, of Fauquier county, Va., is alone authorized to act as General Trave!ling Agent, with the powers above indicated.

Capt. U. may be expected to visit, as speedily as practicable, the principal cities and towns of the Union. N. B. - Capt. Calvert will always have on hand a full supply of the Hair Tonic, (which cleanses the head of dandruff, strengthens and invigorates the hair, and preventsit, also, from falling off,) for the region of country most contiguous to his operations or it may always be obtained, at wholesale, and forwarded to any part of the Union, by addressing the proprietors, M. The Faculties, for intellectual abilities, moral worth and professional acquirements, will compare favorably with the most distinguished in our country. The medical faculty constitutes an anomaly in this or any other country-all of them are able lecturers and the best of teachers. Those who will contemplate our geographical position, and the extent of our population, can have no doubt as to the eligibility of our situation for an enterprise of the kind.

As to health, including all seasons of the year, we deny that ANY OTHER OUTY HAS MORE. A common error exists in the minds of many students relative to the place of studying medicine; those who intend practicing among the diseases of the West and South should certainly educate themselves at a school whose Faculty are practically acquainted with those dis-

That the public may be satisfied of the permanency of this school, we feel it our duty to state, that the Trustees and Faculty form a UNIT in action, which augurs well for its future success; and that the peculiar internal organization which connects them, cannot be interrupted.

MARBÉE YARD

AT WILMINGTON, N. C. THE subscriber takes this method of informing the citizens of New Hanover and the surrounding counties, that he has established the above business, in all its variety, in the building known as the Carriage Repository, next door to Mrs. Cowan's, on Market street, where he will be constantly receiving from one of the most extensive manufactories in New York, as well as from an establishment in Baltimore, a constant supply of articles in his line-consisting in part of and Door Sills and Lintels; In short, every article required, either of Italian, Egyptian, or American Marbles, he is prepared to furnish, at prices that cannot fail to please-and in a style of workmanship that cannot be surpassed at the North or elsewere. He will attend to the delivery and putting up of all jobs that require his attention-thereby saving the purchaser the trouble of employing inexperienced men to put up a job after it has been bought at the North; and he has hesitation in saying that there will be a net saving of 20 to 25 per cent in buying of him, together with the assurance of having the work sound-not running the risk of breaking by shipping from a distance. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine his stock and judge for themselves. Orders by mail or otherwise, from the country, will be attended to, and charges the same as if ordered in person, and instructions implicitly obeyed.

CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS, PREPARED BY DR. C. M. JACKSON. THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 120 Arch Street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled-ij equalled-by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest in many cases after skilful physicians These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids,-Possessing great virtues in the rectification of disease of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are withal, safe, certain, and pleasant. READ AND BE CONVINCED.-Chas. Robinson, Esq. Easton, Md., in a letter to Dr. Jackson, January 10, 1850,

"My wife and myself have received more benefit from your medicine than any other we have ever taken for the Dyspepsia and Liver disease."
"The Tenth Legion," published at Woodstock, Va., January 10, 1850, said—

"A GREAT MEDICINE."-"We have uniformly refrained from recommending to the public any of the various Patent medicines of the day, unless thoroughly convinced of their value. Among those we consider worthy of no-tice is the German Bitters, invented by Dr. Hoofland, and prepared by Dr. Jackson in Philadelphia. One instance in particular, in which the superior virtues of this medicine has been tested, has fallen under our observation. During the last summer, a son of Mr. Abraham Crabill, of this county, was very seriously afflicted with Liver Complaint, and after trying in vain various remidies, he purchased a bottle of the Bitters, and after using it, was so much relieved of his distressing malady, that he procured another bottle, and is restored entirely to

READ FURTHER A FEW FACTS.

From "The Weldon Herald," published at Weldon, N. C., January 24, 1850, which said— "PATENT MEDICINES."-It is very seldom that we make any altusion to Patent medicines, either approving or otherwise. Unfortunately for the country, and for hon est and conscientous inventors and venders of these medicines, the land is becoming flooded with quack preparations, that are made alone for profit and are fit not even for the dogs. In this state of things it is hard to tell which are not worth having. If a person gets an indif-ferent medicine the first time he purchases, he is very apt to condemn the whole of them and buy no more, and inventors must blame those of their number, (who ignorantly combine plain medicines together for the purpose of making money,) for the ill success which attends forts of the deserving."

"We believe that Dr. C. M. Jackson's 'Hoofland's German Bitters' to be a most excellent medicine, and one that should be highly popular in these days of Temperance;—for they are altogether Vegetable in their composi-tion without one drop of Alcoholic Spirits in them. This medicine is innocent, but strengthening in its effects, and richly deserving of an unbounded popularity, which, when it becomes known, it will no doubt fully enjoy."

MORE EVIDENCE.
The "Philadelphia Saturday Gazette," is the best family newspaper published in the United States,. The editor says of Da. H )OFLAND'S German Bitters: "It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent medi cines to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and, therefore, when we recommend Dr. Hoofland's tierman Bitters, we wish to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then torgotten after it has done its guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of the faculty itself."

Evidence upon evidence has been received (like the foregoing) from all sections of the Union, the last three years, and the strongest testimony in its favor, is, that there is more of it used in the practice of the regular Physycians of Philadelphia than all other nostrums combined a fact that can easily be established, and fully proving that a scientific preparation will meet with their quiet approval when presented even in this form.

That this medicine will cure Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, no one can doubt after using it as directed. icts specifically upon the stomach and liver; it is prefera ble to calomel in all bilious diseases—the effect is immediate. They can be administered to female or infant with safety and reliable benefit at any time. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.—This medicine has at tained that high character which is necessary for all medicines to attain to induce counterfeiters to put forth a spu rious article at the risk of the lives of those who are in ocently deceived.

Look well to the marks of the genuine. They have the written signature of C. M. Jackson upo the wrapper, and the name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.

A Green one sold. The publishers of a well known periodical in Boston, have placed in front of their office, in the Tremont street, a vey handsome sign-board upon which is emblazoned the words,

"LITTEL'S LIVING AGE," A greenhorn, fresh caught-came to the city look at the "glorious Fourth"-chanced to be passing towards the Common, when his attention was arrested by the above cabalistic syllables .pon one side of Broomfield street he saw the big sign, upon the other the word "Museum."

"Wall," said he to himself, "I've hearn tell of them museums, but a 'living age,' big or little, must be one of the curiosities we read about. He stepped quietly across the street, and wi ping his face approached one of the windows in which were displayed several loose copies of the work. He read upon the covers "Littel's Living Age," and upon a card "Popular Magazine -only one of its kind in the country," &c. "Magazine! - wall, that beats thunder all tes smash! I've hearn abaout paouder magazines, an'all that-wall, I reckon I'll see the critter, enny how!" and thus determined, he cautiously approached the door. A young man stood in the entrance.

When does it open?" asked the countryman.

What, sir?" What time does it begin?" "What?"

"The show."

"What show?" "Why, that are-this," continued our inno ent friend, pointing up to the sign.

The young man evidently supposed the stran-ger insane—and turning on his heel walked into "Wall, I dunno 'baout that feller, much-but reckon I hav'nt cum a hundred miles to be fooled-I ain't, and I'm goin' to see the critter sure.' "Hello! I say, Mr. Wat's name, there, doorkeeper! Hel-lo!"

A clerk stepped to the door at once and inquired the man's business. "Wot do I want? Why I want to see the animal, that's all." "What animal?" "Why this critter-" "I don't understand you, sir."

"Wall, you don't look as ef you could understand nobody enny how. Jes send the doorkeeper vere.' By this time a crowd had collected in and about the doorway, and the green 'un let off something like the following. "That chap as went in fust thar ain't nobody, of he has got a swaller tailed coat on. My money's as good as his'n, and it's a free country today. This young man ain't to be fooled easy. now, I tell you. I cum down to see the Fourth, I've seen the elephant, and now I'm bound to see this critter. Hello, there, mister!" As no one replied to him, however, he ventured again into the office, with the crowd at his heels, and addressing one of the attendants, he inquired-

"What's the price, nabur?" "The price of what, sir?" "Of the show." "There's no show here-"

"No show! What'n the thunder do you leave he sign out for then?" "What do you want to see?" said another gen-

"Why, I want to see the animal." "The animal?" "Yes-the critter."

le livin',--sumthin hereabout." "Littel's Living Age." "That's the critter-them's um-trot him out, nabor, vere's ver putty."

Having discovered that he was right, (as he supposed) he hopped about and got near the door Pending the conversation, some rascally wag in the crowd, had contrived to attach a half-dozen of lighted fire-crackers to the skirt of our green friend's coat, and as he stood in the attitude of passing as he supposed to the door-keeper's quarter same instant a loafer sang out at the top of his lungs-"Look out! the critter's loose?" Perhaps the countryman didn't leave a wide wake behind in that crowd, and may be he didn't astonish the multitude along Collonade Row, as he dashed towards the Common with his smo-

-crack, bang! went the fireworks, and at the king coat tail streaming in the wind. Our victim struck a bee-line for the Providence depot, reaching it just as the cars were ready to start. The crowd arrived as the train got under way, and the last we saw of the "unfortunate," he was scated at a window whistling most voeiferously at the engine to hurry it on .- Boston

THE CHEVALIER BAYARD .- When his mother was told that her youngest son was on his horse impatient to be gone, descending from the tower of the castle, whither she had retired to weep bitter tears for his departure, she thus addressed and commanded of him three things; the first was "to love God above all things, and recommend himself night and morning to God, and serve him without offending him in any way, if it might be possible." The second thing was "to be courteous to all men, casting away pride; neither to slander or lie, nor be a tale-bearer, and to be temperate and loyal." The third was "that he should be charitable, and share with the poor whatever gifts God should bestow upon him. These were commands which he implicitly obeyed; and for his observance of them he was indebted for a title far above that of prince or noble, that of "the knight without fear and without reproach." From boy to man he was beloved and respected for his courtesy, bravery, benevolence, invincible integrity, and piety. Francis the First would receive the honor of knighthood from no hands but his. Being once asked what possessions a man had best leave to his son, Bayard replied, "Such as are least exposed to the power of time or human force, wisdom and vir- to Trenton, where he found the runaway. A BEAUTHUL LITTLE STORY -A few was since, in coming down the North river, I seated in the cabin of the magnificent strange Issae Newton, in conversation with some friends It was becoming late in the evening, and one of it was becoming late in the evening, and the ter another seeking repose from the cares and toils of the day made preparations to retire to their berths. Some, pulling off their boots and costs, lay themselves down to rest; others, in the attempt to make it seem as much like he sible, threw off more of their clothing as their comfort or apprehension of danger dieta

I had noticed on deck a fine looking boy, of about six years of age, following around a man, evidently his father, whose appearance indicated him to be a foreigner, probably a German—a man of medium height, and respectable dress.—
The child was unusually fair and fine-looking. handsomely-featured, with an intelligent and affectionate expression of countenance; and from under his German cap, fell chesnut hair, in thick clustering curls.

After walking about the cabin for awhile, the father and son stopped within a few feet of where we were seated, and began preparations for going to bed. I watched them. The father adjusted and arranged the bed the child was to occupy. which was an upper berth, while the little fellow was undressing himself. Having finished this, his father tied a handkerchief around his head, to protect his curls which looked as if the sunlight from his young happy heart always rested there. This done I looked for him to seek his resting place; but instead of this, he quietly kneeled down upon the floor, put his little hands together so beautifully childlike and simple, resting his arms on the lower berth, against which he knelt, he began his vesper prayer.

The father sat by his side, and waited the con-clusion. It was, for a child, a long prayer, but well understood. I could hear the murmuring of his sweet voice, but could not distinguish the words he spoke. There were men around him -Christian men retiring to rest without prayer; or if praying at all, a kind of mental desire for protection, without sufficient courage or piety to kneel down in a steamboat's cabin, and before strangers, acknowledge the goodness of God, or ask his protecting love.

This was the training of some pious mother.
Where was she now? How many times had her kind hand been laid on the sunny locks, as she had taught him to lisp his prayers.

A beautiful sight it was, that child at prayer in he midst of the busy, thoughtless throng. He, alone, of this worldly multitude, draws nigh to heaven. I thank the parental love that taught him to lisp his evening prayer, whether Catholic or Protestant, whether dead or alive, whether far off or nigh. I could scarce refrain from weeping then, nor can I now, as I see again that sweet child, in the crowded tumult of a steamboat's cabn, bending in devotion before his maker.

But a little while before, I saw a crowd of admiring listeners gathering about a company of Italian singers in the upper saloon—a mother and her two sons, with voice, and harp, and violin; but no one cared for the child at

When the little boy had finished his evening devotion, he arose and kissed his father wost afectionately, who put him into his berth to rest for the night. I felt a strong desire to speak to them but deferred it till morning. When morning came, the confusion of landing prevented me from seeing them again. But, if ever I meet that boy in his happy youth, in his anxious manhood, in his declining years, I'll thank him for the influence and example of that night's devotion, and bless the name of the mother that taught him.

"The chief lady of the douar was too busy for ceremony; she left that department to her husband. She was first lieutenant. But one vening, as we were returning to the douar, she signified that she had something to say, and conducting me into the tent, made me sit down and herself opposite, said- Christian, since the wives and daughters of your country's shieks neither cook nor weave, nor make butter, nor look after the guests, or sheep, what do they do?" Having already avowed that the greatest shiek in the English country had not in his tent, or in his house, a spindle or loom, I explained how our adies occupied themselves. She shook her head and said- It is not good; but added, after a pause. 'Are your women happier than we?'answered, 'Neither of you would take the life of the other; but when I tell my country women about you they will be glad to hear, and they will not say, 'It is not good.' 'Christian, she said, what will you tell of me?' I answered, 'I will say I have seen the wife of an Arab shiek, and the mistress of an Arab tent, such as we read of in the writings of old, such are the models held up to our young maidens; such as we listen to nly in songs, or see in dreams." Had a voice spoken from the earth, I could not have been more startled. It was nature saying to art-What is thy worth? What do we know of the happiness and the uses that belong to the drudgeries of life ? Our harvest is of the briars and thorns of a spirit uneasy and overwrought. Here are no changes in progress—no classes that hate—and why? The household works. There is no subdivision of labor-the nousehold, not the man, is the mint of the State.

TAKING A RIDE. - At Bordentown, N. J., the ther day the managers of the railroad to Trenton were put to a nonplus. The locomotive which was to carry the morning train to Trenton, was missed, and could be no where found. The engineer was compelled to get another, with which he went seems that some time during the night an insane fellow had gone to the engine, made a fire, took on an excursion of his own down the road. He passed all the stations at a flying pace, and did not stop until he had reached Trenton, where he said that he only wanted to see how fast he could
