A Fine Set of Teeth for 25 Cents.
White Teeth, Foul Breath, Healthy Gums.
Yellow and unhealthy teeth, after being once or twice cleaned with JONES' AMBER TOOTH PASTE, have the appearance of the most beautiful Ivory, and at the same time it is so perfectly innocent and equi-librious, that its constant daily use is highly advangeous, even to those teeth that are in good condition, giving them a beautiful polish, and preventing a premature decay. Those already decayed, it prevents from becoming worse—it also fastens such as are becoming loose, and by perseverance it will render the loosest teeth delicately white, and make the breath deliciously sweet.
PRICE 25 OR 37 1/2 CENTS A BOX.
Sold in Wilmington, by Lippitt & Wilkings.

LIFE INSURANCE.
Agency of the Hope Mutual Life Insurance Company.
THE subscriber has been appointed Agent for the above Company, and is now prepared to receive applications for life insurance—he is also prepared to receive applications for insurance on the lives of Slaves.
This institution incorporated in 1846—with a liberal and judicious charter and duly organized according to law has commenced the business of LIFE INSURANCE on the MUTUAL principles.
THE NET PROFITS being divided annually among the insured, according to the Act of Incorporation. The rates of premiums conform with the usage of other similar companies, and the convenience of parties insuring who would prefer to pay the premiums by instalments, is left to their option when the premium exceeds $25, to pay one half in cash, and accepted payment of the residue in 12 months, by an approved note bearing interest at six per cent.
The lives of married men may be insured for the benefit of their wives and children, so that upon the decease of the insured the wife if living, or if not, then his children will receive the amount payable by the policy, free and clear of any claim by the creditors of the deceased.
For the greater security of parties insuring with this company, the Trustees have provided an indis-sible fund to the amount of $250,000, which may accrue upon policies issued by the company, which is to remain until a capital exceeding that amount shall have been realized from the receipt of premiums, when it will be no longer necessary, and may be withdrawn.
The following is a list of the officers and trustees for the ensuing year, viz: TRUSTEES.

SOUR GRAPES.
Ara—Gaffer Gray.
"Sny, why dost thou shiver and shake,
Lewis Cass;
And why dost thy cheek turn so pale?
'Tis my party that's gone,
The "Old Hunkers" are done, Not one left to tell the sad tale, Oh! Alas!
Then call on thy friends of the South,
Lewis Cass,
And bid them thy fortunes espouse; Nay, but friends I have none,
The "Old Hunkers" are gone, I never shall see the "White Hoo-e."
Oh! Alas!
Then haste to the home of the free,
Lewis Cass;
Thy fame and thy name are known there, Nay, but that's not the place, For they call me "dough face," Where folks breathe the pure northern air, Oh! Alas!
Then go to the fields of the slain,
Lewis Cass,
And fight all thy battles once more.
Nay, but that is the trump,
For my sword's in a stump,
A fact I most deeply deplore,
Oh! Alas!
New York has fine votes and great men,
Lewis Cass;
And the people will welcome you there.
Her fine votes and great men, Will be used once again,
To put Matty Van in the chair, Ah! Alas!
Thy fortunes are low, I confess,
Lewis Cass;
And so, man, you'd better remove—
For we have on the track, That brave man, "Old Zack,"
The object of every one's love,
And he'll pass!
Yankee Doodle,
Hurrah for "Zack," we'll all go,
From Maine to lower Mexico;
And on this thing we all are bent, That "Zack" shall be our President.

FROM THE N. Y. TRIBUNE.
Life in New York.
THE NEEDLE WOMAN
The Tribune has already contained a series of statistical articles on the subject of female labor, which gave many curious and surprising facts. Our object at present is to revive things in the general, for the purpose of giving the reader a comprehensive view of the various classes into which society in the metropolis is divided. It will be sufficient, therefore, for our purpose to present in a few words the average prices paid for various kinds of needlework, at the principal and prosperous establishments.
Common cotton shirts, and flannel under shirts, six cents each. A good seamstress can run up two of these shirts per day, and even a very swift hand, by working from sunrise to midnight can make three—being 75 cents per week for the common workers, and $1.12 1/2 for the swiftest of course, allowing nothing for holidays, sickness, accidents, being out of work, &c. &c.
Good cotton shirts, with linen bosoms, neatly stitched, are made for 25 cents apiece.
A good seamstress will make one in a day, thus earning $1.50 per week, by constant labor. Fine linen shirts with plated bo-soms, which cannot be made by the very best hands short of fifteen or eighteen hours steady work, are paid fifty cents each. An ordinary hand can make a garment of this kind in two days. Trawsers, overalls, drawers, under shirts, &c. &c., pay a shilling apiece to the seamstress, who can make one and perhaps two a day. Cloth pantaloon, vests, &c., pay eighteen to fifty cents—very seldom the latter price—and a woman makes, on the average, about one a day. Thus, not to prolong these details, it may be stated, in a word, that the seamstress who is fortunate enough to get steady work, earns from seventy-five cents to two dollars a week. Besides these, it is necessary to state that the dress makers, or at any rate the great majority of them, get absolutely nothing for their work—
"The way it is managed is this: The proprietors of the large dress-making establishments receive a great number of apprentices, who remain six months for nothing, boarding themselves in the meantime, for the privilege of learning the trade.
They can already sew swiftly and well, or they are not accepted. To them are given out the dresses, and they are kept constantly at work sewing (not learning anything new) until the very day before their apprenticeship expires. Then a few hours are spent in giving them some general directions about cutting a dress, and they are discharged—there being no room for journeywomen on wages in an establishment where all work is done by apprentices. As fast as their "education" is completed, they are replaced by other apprentices—and so it goes on—the dashing proprietors of the establishment growing rich and aristocratic, and the poor girls turned out upon the world to die of starvation and despair, or sell themselves to infamy.

A PATRIOT.
HARRISON GRAY OTIS, well known throughout the country, as a man of rare abilities, in a recent address to the people of Massachusetts, used the following language.
"It is further seriously objected that Gen.
Taylor is a slaveholder. This objection comes about 60 years too late. It was disposed of in substance by the original articles of confederation, and annulled, in form, by the constitution of the United States. The Northern States were glad enough to avail themselves of the co-operation of the South, in their struggle for independence, and no questions asked.
Not less thankful were they to cement the incipient alliance by a most solemn compact, expressly recognizing their right to property in their slaves, and engaging to protect it—treating with them as proprietors of slaves, as our equals in all respects, and eligible as consequences to all offices under the constitution. What would have been the fate of a motion in that glorious assembly which formed the constitution, or of those who might have made it—George Washington present—to declare a slaveholder ineligible to any office under it? I well remember the adoption of the constitution by my fellow-citizens of this state, when Hancock, muffled in red baize, was brought into the Convention to sign the ratification. The evening preceding a demonstration in favor of the measure was made in the streets of Boston, by an assemblage favorable to it, whose numbers, Paul Revere assured Samuel Adams, were like the sand of the sea shore, or like the stars in heaven."
"The unbending joy of the people on this occasion was alloyed only by the fear that the Southern States might come into the league. Never can I forget when in the balcony of the City Hall in New York, Washington the slaveholder, as if an angel dropped from the clouds, came forth and took the oath to support the Constitution. No one can describe the silent, terrific ecstasy which prevailed the myriads who witnessed that scene; succeeded only by shouts which seemed to shake the canopy above them. The man who on that occasion had dared to object to a slaveholding President would not have been an object of envy. It would probably not be too much to affirm, that such a sick man's dreams had never entered any mind."

HARRISON GRAY OTIS is a Whig.
THE SENTIMENTS OF TWO MEN
"The hearts of the people must be prepared for WAR."—Lewis Cass in the Senate of the U. States.
"I sincerely rejoice at the prospect of Peace. My life has been devoted to arms, yet I look upon war at all times, and under all circumstances, as a national calamity, to be avoided compatible with national honor."—Z. Taylor, Allison later "We might swallow the whole of Mexico without being hurt by it."—Lewis Cass in Senate of U. S.
"The principles of our Government, as its true policy, are opposed to the subjugation of other nations, and the annexation of other countries by conquest. In the language of the great Washington "Why should we quit our soil to stand on foreign soil?"—Z. Taylor.
Gen. Cass, if elected, would be bound to stand up to the party, and thus continue the miserable and reckless policy of the present Administration. But, look at the high and patriotic sentiments of General Taylor on this subject.
"Although a Whig, I am not an anti-Whig. I have no private purposes to accomplish—no party purposes to build up—no enemies to punish—nothing to serve but my country."—ZACHARY TAYLOR When you hear a man calling himself every one a fool, you can set him down as one of the same sort.
