Filling Teeth before decay has exposed the nerve, is one of the most valuable operations belonging to the Dantal art. When properly and skillfully per-formed, it perfectly restores the tooth to its former beauty and durability—than which no operation in Surgery can be more grateful and satisfactory. Clickener, by his Agent at Lancaster, Pa. Angina Pectoris, or Diseases of the Heart. Lancaster, Feb. 17th, 1815,

I cannot express the obligation I am under to you for recommending me to try Clickener's Sugar Would respectfully inform the inhabitants of Wilmington and vicinity, that he has taken a Room at London's building. Front street, East side, No. 6, where he is prepared to perform all operations pertaining to his profession in the most approved modern and scientific manner, which for utility and beauty, he will warrant not to be excelled by any in Coated Purgative Pill. You know I had be n long was coming on. It would sometimes attack me, while walking in the street, and then, I used to think how horrible it would be to drop down dead all of a sudden, with no one to have a care for me. The hysicians told me it was of no use to doctor for it. It was past all cure, because none of them had ever been able to cure it. But I had heard so much about Patent Medicines, as they are called, that I determined to try some of them. So I went to Philadelphie, and called on Mr. F. Brown, who keeps the apothecaries' shop corner of Fifth and Chesnatstreets, and he gave me a box of pills. I took two boxes, according to-directions, but they did no good. He then gave me a bottle of stuff. with a very landish kind of name; but that had no more effect than the other. Just then I happened to hear of Clickener's Sugar Coated Purgative Pills, and as hey were "something new under the sun," I thought would try them, and if I got no better, why I must give it up as a bad job. So I called on you as you may recollect, and bought a box for 25 cents, I beg in taking them, and before I had half finished the box. I telt like a different person. I could walk much farhar, and sometimes a half mile and back, without feeling any pain. The segond box and a still better effect, and before I had got through with the third, he complaint had entirely left me. I am certain it s all owing to the virtues of Clickener's Pills, and nothing else, and I wish that every body should know t, because I think they are one of the greatest blessings on earth. I always keep them in the house in case any one at the family should get sick; for I know if they could cure me of so bad a complaint. ly they will cure almost any body else. If you want to print this in your pamphlet. I have no objection in the world, though I am not much us. d to writing. Yours, in all thankfulness,

MARY ANN WENDOVER.

The Institu. on is situated on Caswell Square. bout one third of a mile from the State House. The ground occupied by the buildings with that adjacent. is the property of the Institution, and granted by the Legislature of the State. In ex eat it embraces four acres, a part of which will be cultivated, and the remainder will constitute spacious Lawns where the Male Pupils will amuse themselves, at proper hours, in athletic sports, and the Females, in walking, or such other kinds of exercise as may be appropriate to their sex. The main building in the dimensions of its plan, is sixty feet by thirty six. It has two wings, each thirty-eight feet by twenty two extending "at right angels from the main edifice, and projecting from each extremity of it by nearly the whole width of each wing. In elevation it embraces four stories, including the basement, and the wings three, and is surmounted by a tower or observatory, commanding an extensive and beautiful prospect. In the base ment are the dining-room and store rooms, and in the story above the basement, are the parlor, sitting room and ibrary. In the other stories are the family apartments of the Principal and his assistants, and two rooms set apart for the Pupils in case of sickness. In the basement of one wing are the kitchen and wash room, and that of the other is set apart for instruction in mechanical trades. On the principal floor of the wings, are the sitting-rooms of the males and females, and the upper story is occupied for dormitories. The chief merit of the arrangement consists in its preserving these two departments' as far as relates to the accommodations, amusements and pursuits of the Pupils out of school, so independent in every particular, as to constitute of them two separate and distinct communities, while the dining. room in which both assemble, with the Tenchers and family of the Principal, is convenently accessible. The unbounded popularity and extensive sale of the pills have induced persons to imitate them, and wrap them up under a name and reputation not their own. The proprietors have put up these pills in their wn proper name that they may the more effectually protect them and the public from fraud, which they could not do if they had taken a fictious name, or the name of the dead. Read the following statement My father, the Rev. B. HIBBARD, died August 17, 1844. While in his life time, I manufactured these Pills, and put them up in boxes, and enclosed them with wrappers, with his name, by his consent and approbation; he used frequently to say to me, "Now be very careful, my son, for if the Pills are not made good, the public will blame me." So by his active superintendance, the Pills have gained their reputation as a Family Medicine. Since his death, I have manufactured the Pills and put them up in my ewn name, as I deem it to be a species of deception to put the name of Rev. B.
