It may be a new season for the Winston-Salem State University football team but last year's chief problem is still unsolved.

The 1974 Rams, who were continually victimized by the pass, had the same problem Saturday as reserve quarterback Russ Seaton passed for four touchdowns against the Rams secondary, and lead Hampton to a 32-13 victory.

Seaton, a tall slender sophomore, replaced Hampton starting quarterback Dwight Joyner late in the first quarter. After running back Larry Brooks gained eight yards on a run, Seaton hit Mike Haggans for a 52-yard touchdown. John Gamble's extra point gave the Pirates a lead they never relinquished, 7-6.

Seaton threw second quarter touchdown passes of 17 yards to Reggie Midgett and 25 yards to Haggans for a 20-6 lead.

After a scoreless third period Hampton scored twice in the fourth quarter on Seaton's fourth touchdown pass and a one-yard run by Mike Johnson.

The Rams had 18 first downs to Hamptons 15 and more rushing yardage (143 to 116), but Seaton, who passed for 188, gave Hampton the big plays the Rams failed to make.

Rams coach Cleo Wallace felt that penalties hurt the Rams chances for a win. They were penalized 182 yards making their total offense for the game minus penalties 5 yards. Hampton was penalized a total of 110 yards. The game was declared over with
