SEARCH by Carolyn Jackson

O child of woe!
O foe of pain!
Death forever seeks to know thy name!

Born in sorrow,
Conceived in shame--
Forever misery will be thy claim.

A Mother's love you never knew,
A Father's strength you'll never feel--
Conceived in a moment of passion;
Abandoned in a time of need.

A friend you have little one!
The annals of your mind I can understand...
All these things to me in life have been done!

There is misery--
There is joy in every man.
Never let the light of day see your head downcast--
Strength is in your inner soul!

The blood of the warriors flows through your veins...
Warriors that never died
But slept to be awakened in the souls of children.

Come child, search your soul with me!
Find the man in you that was born to run free!
Look down at the man looking up--
Find the man in you that looks out as others look on!

Child, don't you see that we all have confusion?
People will be feeding you their dope--
Some will be telling you "People don't smoke".

Find the man in you that hears the voices of the four winds...
Search for him that listens to the sounds of life as death walks away

Search for him that needed light and found truth!
For every night, the man cried--
For others had died.
Every day he thought, "Why couldn't I touch the bodies of the wind?"

Search for the man that walks tall,
Walks alone--
But still walks in unity with his God and his fellow man.
SEARCH!!!!

Again folks, Mr. Charles C. Clement says, "I...

GOT MINE by Charles C. Clement

I have asked for ner' a gift
Since I left my Mother's womb;
But I stand among the rich on earth
For the Lord stands in my room.

CARE - about others as you care about yourself and perhaps there will be less hurt.

CONCERN - yourself with humanity - Just maybe in the year '76 this will be a BETTER WORLD! See you later!
