

FANTASTIC FOOD

Savings

Some Prices Effective Thru Sat. Only

EVERYDAY AT THE DISCOUNT HOUSE

We Welcome Food Stamps and W.I.C. Coupons

All Flavors Sealtest Ice Cream
Save 50¢!
½ Gal. 99¢

Davis Carolina Best 5lb. Bag Flour 59¢

New White Potatoes
5 Lb. 49¢

Ballard and Pillsbury Biscuits
4 Cans Of 10 49¢

Half Gallon Size Cokes
64 oz. Bottle... 69¢

Big 16 oz. Size 16 oz. Tab, Sundrop & Cokes
8 Bottle Ctn... 75¢

Crispy Fresh Lettuce
Head 29¢

Dixie Crystals Sugar
Limit 2 With Order At This Price 99¢

Fresh Lean Ground Beef
Lb. 79¢

Fresh Sliced Beef Liver
Lb. 49¢

Banquet Frozen Fruit Pies
4 9oz. Pies $ 1 Apple Peach

Sealtest Light N' Lively Yogurt
4 8 oz. Ctns. $ 1

DISCOUNT HOUSE

2201 NORTH PATTERSON AVE. next to Sealtest

Members of the Parkland Players stand in front of Nation's Capitol with Congressman Steve Neal and teacher, Mrs. Flonnie Anderson, while on a recent tour.

Players Big Success

Washington -- Parkland Players drew a packed "tent" last week when they presented "That Banner in the Sky," a choric history of the American flag, at Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts here.

The Parkland High School group, directed by Ms. Flonnie Anderson, gave two Flag Day performances in the Chataqua Tent on the second floor of the center. The tent seats about 200 persons.

"That Banner in the Sky" was written by Dr. Elizabeth Welch, a retired Salem College faculty member. It emphasizes the spirit of discovery, exploration, development, disappointment, apathy and faith throughout America's colorful past.

The story of the flag was presented by Angie Mecum, who played the role of the flag. The choir included Johathan Cloud, Dianne Bradley, Lynn Allen, Debbie Latham, Phyllis Gentry, Martha Larrimore and Edward Brown.

Fifth District Rep. Steve Neal was instrumental in arranging for the presentation to be given in the Kennedy Center. He also invited all Members of Congress to attend.

Sermon

Continued from Page 6

Let's go a little further. There was a different interpretation between the North and the South. There were great men on both sides. The North had its interpretation and the South had its. The Civil War was one of the greatest tests of the American dream in the history of our country. Our country was split down the middle, and the world doubted whether we could be a nation of free people.

What makes the American dream? Different people and spaces between our togetherness, allowing us to be different rather than dissident. That's part of it.

We cannot understand American unless we understand that it was religious motivations that helped found us. Underneath it all, I feel that we are a country destined by God. If you took a coin from your pocket, no matter what coin it would be, you would read the words "In God We Trust." Some say it is blasphemy; others that it is mockery. But what does it mean? No nation is absolute and no government is absolute. The tyrant will have difficulty with us. If a people's conscience is under God, a nation is under God.

Try reading history and some of the speeches of leaders like Lincoln, MacArthur, George Washington, Martin Luther King, Jr., just to name a few -- and always this phrase comes up: "This nation, under God."

When we see the uniqueness of America, we see a nation that believes we serve under God.

Sunday is July the Fourth. It's Independence Day. It's our Bicentennial Celebration. It's a day when we try to understand liberty. It's a day when we try to understand the dream of freedom. No matter how far we are from it, this dream is still deep within us. As long as we have this dream, it's "right on" to fulfill it. "Right on" to a more just society. "Right on" to a political structure. "Right on" until we see that the differences among us in race and culture will not divide us.