Local Girl Is Miss Freshman

bury, N.C. liberal arts college. From left is Thailia Regina Griffin, an 18-year-old native of Winston-Salem, N.C., who is "Miss Freshman" and an English major; Kathy Loraine Johnson, "Miss Junior", who is a 20-year-old elementary education major from Portsmouth, Va.; Brona Faye Roberts, a 21-year-old busi-

Perry Appears In First Movie

by Pinky Bradley
Special Correspondent

After being a co-star in the B road way show, "All American Movin' Muscle", Lemuel Perry, a native of Winston-Salem, has just finished doing a pan-a-mine movie for Walter Dale productions of flushing, New York. This is Perry's first leading role in a motion picture. Perry's first movie was with James Earl Jones and Dina Williams and top fashion model Beverly Johnson. The movie's original title was "Trouble Times" and has been changed to "Deadly Hero", a New York executive informed us.

Perry's credits have been growing in the past two years and his hard work is paying off. Walter Dale, the producer and director of the pan-a-mine movie, said Perry was his first choice although he hadn't really started casting for the movie. Dale said, "Perry is a natural for the part."
