box that stores the funny little hats for the New Year's Eve party, pull out that tattered piece of paper that you wrote your 1976 New Year's resolutions on, read it so you can remember what it was, tear it up and let's start anew in 1977 with a new, New Year's resolution.

O.K. write yours down and compare them with these the "man in the street" gathered from passersby.

R.W. Myers stated, "I don't plan to make any new resolutions for 1977. I only want to live up to the one I made last year which was to make the best of every situation I encounter."

Rochelle Clark commented, "I haven't made any yet but I plan to before Friday. I kept my 1976 New Years resolution."

Rev. J.W. Flake replied, "I've never made a new years resolution. I don't think its necessary to make them and never keep them and people as a rule don't keep them."

Ernestine Stevenson remarked, "I hope to do a better job as a nurse's assistant than last year. My resolution last year was to become closer to God and I'm thankful I was able to keep it. I hope I'll be that successful this year."

Carl Greer promised, "I'm going to resolve to save more money this new year. Last year I didn't save anything but I'm going to be more economical this year."

Elaine Anderson pledged, "I'm going to make two resolutions this year and I hope to stick to both of them. The first is to try and be a better person and the second is to get my Christmas shopping done early."

Marshall Oliver responded, "This year I'm going to try and control my temper better than last year and be a little more understanding of my wife and children."

Arlene Jacobs said, "My new years resolution is to try and live a Christian life in 1977. That's been my resolution ever since I found Christ 23 years ago and each year I come a little closer. I think that's the only resolution worth having. Its the only one I want to live with and I'd hate to die with anything else as my goal in life."

Otis Sales answered, "My new years resolution is to party harder than I did last year. That may be hard but I'm going to have a lot of fun trying."

Gloria Waters declared, "This may sound a little funny but my 1977 resolution is to find me a good man get married and settle down."

Well, friends there you have it a few of the 1977 resolutions much luck to everyone in keeping their New Year's vows. Now here's mine, I resolve to try and make "man in the street" a more interesting and informative column that in 1976.

Happy New Year from your "man in the street."
