

Conducts

Title VII Forum

The Black American Law Students Association (BALSA) Chapter at Wake Forest University School of Law conducted a Symposium on Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 on February 18, 1977 in the school's courtroom.

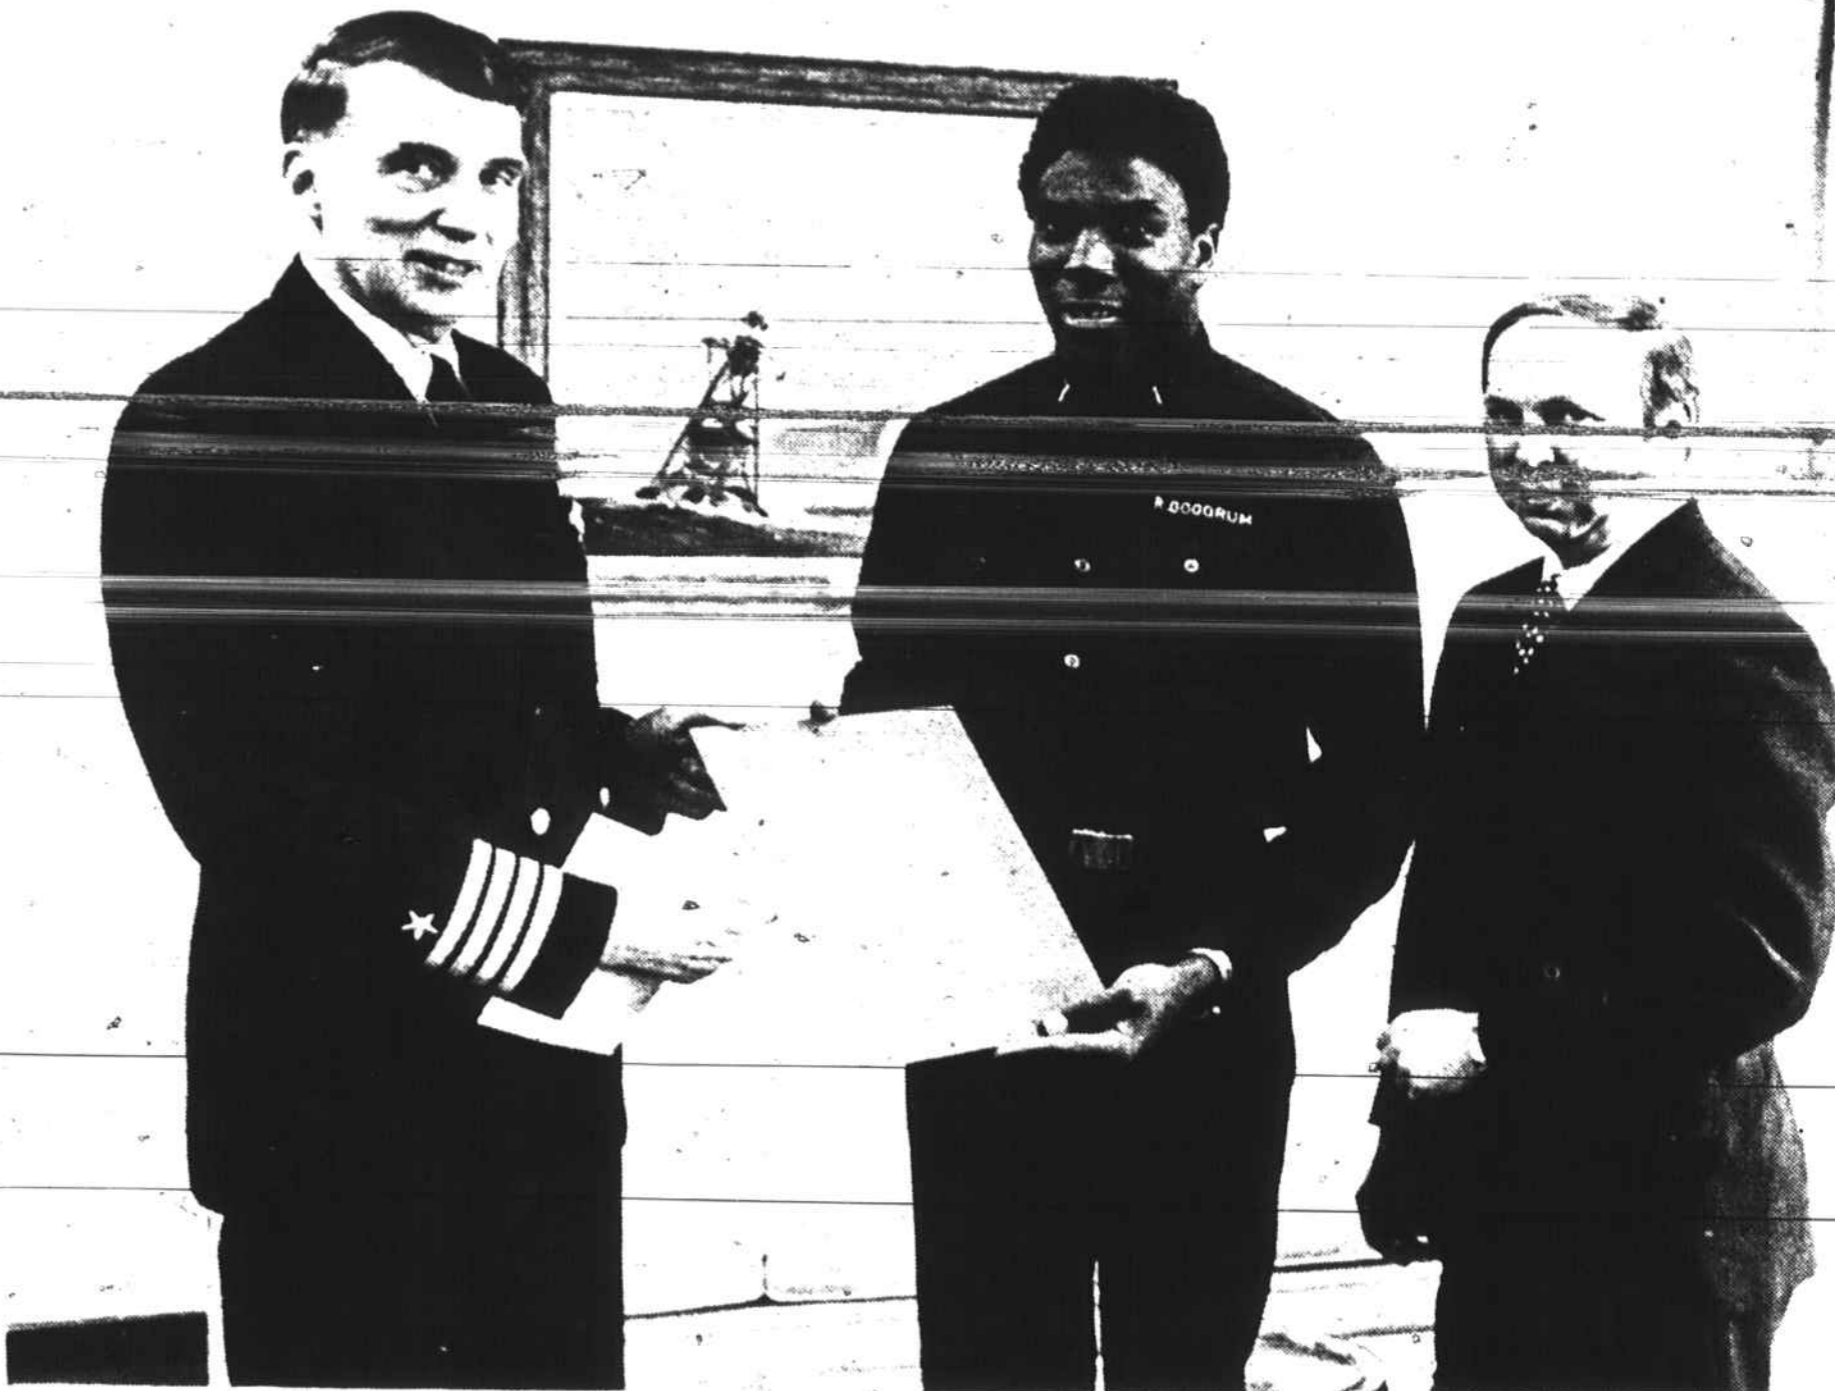

The local BALSA chapter is chaired by David W. Martin, a second year law student who is assisted by a vice-chairman, Leeowen Evans also 2nd year. Other BALSA members at Wake Forest are Samuel Feemster, Beverly Mitchell, Marva Liston, Mike Grace, and Andrew Yarborough.

The speakers at the symposium included Attorney Julius Chambers of Charlotte, a noted attorney in North Carolina, and Attorney Robert Belton of Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee. Mr. Belton conducted a student clinic on Title VII at Vanderbilt.

Attorney Chambers gave an explanation of Title VII and how a discrimination case is conducted. Attorney Belton explained many of the points brought out by Mr. Chambers, including several noted cases.

Title VII involves employment discrimination. Mr. Chambers explained that one who suspects that he has been discriminated against should file a charge of discrimination within 180 days after the discrimination occurs with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 411 N. Tryon Street, Charlotte, N.C. 28202.

"Midshipman of the Year" at the U.S. Naval Academy is Midshipman first class Robert A. Goodrum, a 1972 graduate of Annapolis Senior High School and the first Annapolitan to be selected since the local Chamber of Commerce initiated the program 13 years ago.

Student Named "Midshipman Of The Year"

A black Naval Academy student has been named the U.S. Naval Academy's "Midshipman of the Year" for 1976 by the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce.

Midshipman First Class Robert A. Goodrum, 22, of Lanham, Md., learned of his selection during a supreme ceremony in the office of Captain James A. Winnefeld, Commandant of Midshipmen.

Unaware of why he had been summoned, Midshipman Goodrum reported to the Commandant's office and was told by Chamber of Commerce President Frank Richardson that he had been selected as Midshipman of the Year.

In making his announcement, Richardson invited Midshipman Goodrum to accept the Midshipman of the Year award at the dinner held January 22 in conjunction with the Chamber's annual membership meeting.

Midshipman Goodrum is the 14th recipient of the annual Chamber of Commerce award. Each year the Chamber Naval Affairs Committee conducts a poll concerning midshipman involvement in community activities. Committee members contact Annapolis area churches, civic leaders and various youth and community service organizations in their search for Midshipman of the Year nominees.

The fact that Midshipman Goodrum is a native Annapolitan -- he was born in Anne Arundel General Hospital -- was coincidental to his selection as Midshipman of the Year. In its community-wide search the Chamber of Commerce committee, headed by Chester Harriman of Annapolis, looked for the midshipman who was most deeply involved in the community through personal contributions of time, talent and leadership.

Midshipman Goodrum reported to the Naval Academy in July, 1973, following nine months at the Naval Academy Preparatory School in Bainbridge, Md. He is a mathematics major whose activities include intramural sports, membership on the Brigard Activities Committee and the Big Brother Program.

At Annapolis Senior High School, Midshipman Goodrum was a member of the wrestling team and a student council representative. His community activities outside of high school included membership in his church choir and other church activities.

Zesto

1307 N. Liberty St.
Phone 723-1218
CLOSED SUNDAYS

Open For Lunch

Monday thru Saturday—11:30 a.m.
close 12 midnight

Fresh Seafood
DINNERS & SANDWICHES

★ Shrimp	★ Combination
★ Frog Legs	★ Hamburgers
★ Bone Fish	★ Hot Dogs
★ Boneless Fish	★ Country Ham

Salem Seafood Market

★ Call-in orders ready Phone 725-4074
1305 N. Liberty Street
★ Cleanest seafood market in N.C.

LOBSTER TAILS

CHRONICLE SPECIAL—
You must ask for it

Croakers $5.95

10 lbs.

★ Scaled and dressed FREE

CLOSED MONDAY

Open Tuesday thru Thursday
9:30 a.m. 'til 6 p.m.
Friday 8:30 a.m. 'til 6:30 p.m.
Saturday 8:30 a.m. 'til 6 p.m.

SUPPLIED BY

PARKVIEW AUTO SUPPLY

3002 High Point Rd. Phone 784-9510

We want you to stay in power.

Some fine morning, you may turn your key and nothing will happen. Before you get caught in a power shortage like this, let us check your battery. We'll:

- Check water level
- Check cables
- Check charge level
- Check ground cable

If your battery's days are numbered, we'll replace it with a Delco, the battery with instant starting power, start after start.

! your automotive needs.
9 to 9; SATURDAY 9 to 5
E CALLAHAN MANAGER

Start and go...with the names you know.

