Terry Campbell said, "I guess so, if he is doing a good job. Maybe if a governor knew he had a chance at a second term he would work harder and do a better job in his first four years."

One-hundred percent of the persons interviewed favored the idea of successive terms. One passer-by may have summed up the feelings of all when he said: "If he does a good job he deserves another term. If he doesn't let him run anyway. The voters will let him know he is not worthy of the office."

All ages from 14 to adult are welcome to join the choir, which will hold its next rehearsal at 4:30 p.m. on September 3rd in the auditorium of the Patterson Avenue "Y". ### Should Governors Serve Two Terms?

For some time now we have been people in who felt that the governor should be re-elected to seek a second consecutive term in office. Recently more and more reasons have come out in support of the idea. It now seems likely that the issue will become law in the next gubernatorial election.

With this in mind the "Man in the Street" asked city residents if they thought the governor should be allowed to serve two consecutive terms.

Here is what some of them had to say:

Sherry Edwards responded, "I haven't seen what the present governor has done but if he or any governor is doing a good job I'm not against it. It doesn't effect me either way however, because I support only one government and that's God's government."

Charlie King replied, "I think it's up to the public. If the governor wants to run again, he should be able to do so. The voters will decide if he should serve a second term or not."

Debbie Washington commented, "yes, if he wants too, but he should give someone else a chance. I do think the governor could do a better job by serving a second term."

Willie Malloy answered, "Yes, I think he is doing a pretty good job and I think with a second term he could do a better job. It takes time to implement a good program and with a second term he could be more productive."

Carolyn Alston remarked, "yes, if the people of the state feel he has done a good enough job to serve two terms he should be allowed to do so. The only way to find that out is to allow him to run again."

Marshall Ingram stated, "I would say yes even though I feel there are some negative points to it. The positive aspects outweigh the negative ones. I feel that more can be accomplished by an

Ferguson cited numerous rulings by federal state courts which that if a judge relies on a proposed order lawyers on one side controversy, then less would require decisions from both several times, Ferguson argued in the motion, and attempted to get a of the Attorney General's order without success.

Handling the case for Attorney General Edmisten is Richard League, an Assistant Attorney General. Responding to a request from Ferguson for the order, League said in a recent correspondence "You were not sent a copy of the order I originally sent in because as I understood the matter, it was not a situation where we would be working jointly, or that you would make suggestions with regard to it, and therefore I simply did not see the need."

Fountain's decision to deny a new trial to the Wilmington 10 brought much criticism of the state's judicial system internationally as unjust and racist. It was after he had announced his decision to deny a new trial to the Wilmington 10 that he accepted the proposed order from League.

The Wilmington 10 were convicted in 1972 for conspiracy to arson, arson, and conspiracy to assault firemen and police who were attempting to extinguish a fire in a white-owned grocery in the town's black ghetto.

Governor James Hunt has been requested by Ferguson to pardon the Wilmington 10, an act which would make further court proceedings unnecessary. Spurred by a release of the National Wilmington 10 Defense Committee Chairperson Imani Kazana, last week Hunt Press Aide Gary Pearce declared that Hunt was not close to pardoning the Wilmington 10.

Ms. Kazana's release declared that pardons for the Wilmington 10 were "close at hand."
