Confab Set On Blacks And Criminal Justice System

Rep. John Conyers will be the keynote speaker at the first statewide conference on Blacks and the North Carolina Criminal Justice System, to be held Thursday, December 1st at Shaw University in Raleigh.

The conference is sponsored by the N.C. Commission for Racial Justice in conjunction with the N.C. Association of Black Lawyers, the N.C. Chapter of the National Association of Blacks in Criminal Justice, and the criminal justice departments of Fayetteville State and Shaw University.

For years blacks have been concerned about the extremely high percentage of blacks who are incarcerated in the prison system and the extremely low percentage of blacks who are judges in this state," says Conference Co-ordinator Irv Joyner. "Blacks have continually complained about rampant discrimination in the recruiting, hiring, and promotion of blacks as employees in law enforcement, the courts, and other criminal justice agencies.

The organizations sponsoring the conference noted that the Governor, the legislature, and the heads of various criminal justice agencies have not seen fit to seek qualified blacks as policy-makers in the field of criminal justice.

Rep. Conyers, the keynote speaker for the conference, is a Michigan Democrat who chairs the sub-committee on crime in the House Judiciary Committee. He successfully introduced the Community Anti-Crime Assistance Act, which led to the establishment of the Community Anti-Crime Division of L.E.A.A. Conyers is also a member of the Congressional Black Caucus and chairs its Criminal Justice Braintrust.

The conference will also feature Reginald Eaves, Commissioner of Public Safety, North Carolina, the first black to head the police and fire departments in Atlanta. Eaves, who has succeeded in eliminating much of the discrimination in the delivery of police and fire services, will discuss what blacks in North Carolina can do to correct past injustices.
