Terry, Sparrow Picked In 5th Round Draft

From page 9 and an excellent shooter from the outside. He may have had a better shot with say New Orleans or some other weak team but Carlos has the ability to play pro ball. The main thing is to be in the right place at the right time.

Johnson C. Smith's Herbert Entzminger was chosen by the Detroit Pistons in the seventh round. The Pistons have an abundance of forwards, however, and also chose local Detroit players Terry Tyler and John Long early. Still Gaines thinks he too has a chance to stick in the league. "I had Entzminger in Africa with my All-Star team and watched him for four years. He may have been the best shooter in the league during that time. If he gets a good look he might make it."

A total of ten black college players were chosen, headed by Purvis Short of Jackson State, taken by Golden State in the first round. He was the fifth player selected overall. Southern University's Frankie Sanders was the 20th player taken. He was San Antonio's first round choice. Washington grabbed Grambling's Terry Sykes in the second round, and Portland took Florida A&M's Clemons Johnson in the second. Billy Ray Bates of Kentucky State was Houston's third round choice while Greg Green of Southern, a teammate of Sanders, was chosen by New York in the fifth round just before Terry. Howard's Gerald Glover was sixth round pick of Atlanta.

The play of Bobby Dandridge, Larry Wright and Marvin Webster in the NBA championship series may have caused league general managers to take a closer look at drafting black college stars with the leagues escalating salaries.

Surprisingly, Thomas Blue of Elizabeth City, considered by many to be the CIAA's best prospect was not drafted.
