Film Festival Dates Announced

The 1979 N.C. Film Festival will be held May 4-5 in Raleigh, it has been announced by Sara W. Hodgkins, secretary of the Department of Cultural Resources. The Film Festival will feature a juried competition for North Carolina film makers as well as lectures, workshops, and a presentation by a well-known film maker.

This is the fourth N.C. Film Festival, and the first to be held under the sponsorship of the N.C. Museum of Art, a section of the Department of Cultural Resources. Originally begun in 1975 by a group of independent film makers, the Festival was last held in 1977. All Festival activities will be at the Museum and at N.C. State University, through whose cooperation the event is being produced. The dates for the 1979 Festival were chosen to coincide with the Museum's 41st N.C. Artists Exhibition, a show of works by North Carolinians in painting, sculpture, prints and crafts.

"In the past we have given financial aid to the Festival through the Arts Council," Mrs. Hodgkins said, "but now we're very happy to be organizing the event. There's a lot of vitality among the state's film and video makers and we want to encourage them in the best ways we can." The competition is open to all North Carolina residents. There are eight categories: documentary, theatrical, experimental, commercial, sponsored animation, super-8, video, and under eighteen years of age. All entries will be received at the Museum, April 2-13, 1979. There will be an entry fee of $5 per film.

Cash awards will be made for a grand prize winner as well as for the jurors' selections from the eight categories mentioned above.

Names of Festival jurors and the featured speaker will be announced soon, according to Museum officials. Those interested in being placed on the Festival mailing list should contact Louise Brantley, Museum of Art, Department of Cultural Resources, Raleigh, NC 27611

Candle Tea

The 50th annual Candle Tea, sponsored by Women's Fellowship of Home Moravian Church, will open here Thursday, November 30.

The Tea is held in the Brothers House, located on Salem Square in Old Salem. Approximately 14,000 visitors attend the Tea each year.

After singing Christmas Carols to the accompaniment of the historic Tannenburgh organ, visitors to the Tea will see beeswax candles made and trimmed. Moravian sugar cake and coffee will be served in the kitchen. In the deep cellar of the Brothers House, the Christmas putz (a German word meaning decoration) is on display. Built by members of Home Church, the putz depicts the nativity scene and a miniature reproduction of the town of Salem in the mid-1800's. This annual event is made possible through the efforts of over 1,000 volunteers, many of whom work all year on the project.

White had to receive a written notification and that White had to acknowledge in writing receipt of the barr. "This situation has put me in an unbelievable financial bind," said White as he noted the loss of his $1,000 per month salary and gestured towards the van and car in his driveway. "There are lots of medical jobs I could do in civilian life, but they look at 'discharged after 17 years', give a frown and then they say, 'I'll give you a call back.' But they never do."

Keith Snyder of the Military Law Project of the American Civil Liberties Union in Washington, D.C. told the Chronicle that indebtedness is a reason that can be given to bar re-enlistment.

Snyder said that White has several options if he feels a bar was unjustly placed on him. He can appeal to the Board for the Correction of Military Records, a lengthy process that could take years, or he can file suit under the Privacy Act to remove "irrelevant or untimely" information from his record.

American Federal, in Greensboro, and Mutual, in Durham, are the other two black operated S&Ls in the state. Both are mutuals.

The proposed savings and loan would offer savings accounts and mortgage loan services, according to the offering circular being distributed to prospective stock buyers.

Profits would be made by the "spread" between the interest paid on savings accounts and the interest charged on mortgage loans.

The incorporators of the firm are seeking to raise $1.5 million by selling stock at $10 per share. Buyers would be required to buy at least ten shares. Cardinal has applied for a license operations from the Savings and Loan Division of the N.C. Department of Commerce and for approval for deposit insurance by the North Carolina Savings Guaranty Corporation.

She said no bar was shown on his records. However, White might fall under an Army regulation which prohibits re-enlistment of former soldiers who served 17 years or more without rising beyond the rank of staff sergeant.

The letter forwarded by Rep. Neal from the Department of the Army cited that regulation and said that White had lost time because of being AWOL (absent without leave).

However, Clay said he had lost no time. White said he had never been AWOL.

Maj. Jeff Cook, a Department of the Army information officer in Washington, D.C., told the Chronicle that if White was barred from re-enlisting, White had to receive a written notification and that White had to acknowledge in writing receipt of the barr. "This situation has put me in an unbelievable financial bind," said White as he noted the loss of his $1,000 per month salary and gestured towards the van and car in his driveway. "There are lots of medical jobs I could do in civilian life, but they look at 'discharged after 17 years', give a frown and then they say, 'I'll give you a call back.' But they never do."

The Chronicle made a request of the Adjutant General of the XVIII Airborne Corps as to whether

"The teacher supply in North Carolina is being reduced."

At the state's present NTE minimum of 950, Dr. Tobias estimated that over 65% of WSSU students taking the test score a passing grade. If the minimum were raised, that number would be reduced.

"Given our resources and our pool of students, we do fairly well," Dr. Tobias said. He suggested that there are better ways of ensuring teacher quality than by raising the test score. Strengthening basic skill programs is one alternate method.

Dr. Tobias recommended a gradual upgrading of requirements. "Quality cannot be legislated," he said.
