

NAACP Workers Raise $3,000

Almost $3,000 in membership fees were turned in during the first report meeting for the NAACP membership drive, according to drive chairperson Mrs. Clara Nesby.

"Thank God, I had an adding machine," she said of the Monday night meeting.

Dr. C.B. Hauser had the leading total of the 15 workers who made reports. He turned in $1,946 for 72 different memberships, including 14 life memberships.

The total figure for the night's collection was $2,868. Mrs. Nesby noted that many workers have yet to make their reports.

She praised the enthusiasm of the 15 workers who attended the first meeting, noting that one fellow committee member had picked up 100 books to fill up with memberships.

However, Nesby said she could use more help. "We need more workers and we especially need to make sure all the churches are covered," she added.

The next report meeting for the membership drive will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, April 23 at Mrs. Nesby's home at 1641 Jackson Ave.

There will be no new programs in the recreation departments and that some programs may have to be cut.

"The citizens are yelling and screaming tax cuts so our budget is calling for no new programs," Jamison said.

Most of the costs in the budget will be in the area of operational costs.

"Inflation and the rising cost of living affects us too," Jamison said. "We have to pay water, gas and utilities just like you do."

Jamison did not specify where budget cuts would be made.

Jim Dalrymple, director of the Coliseum/Convention Center is requesting a 10 percent increase in their budget over last year.

"Homesick, she and the children returned to Winston-Salem. She's been able to be a bit more at home, but far, but fears detection at any moment.

There is little that can be done to quell her fears. A spokesman in the crime prevention office of the Winston-Salem police said officers must await a violation of the law before taking action.

"Now, if he called up and told her, 'I'm coming right over to kill you,' then we would dispatch a car to keep a watch on the place," said the spokesman. "But, we can't supply 24-hour guard service."

Her advice to women still in the process of being battered: "There's a lot of young girls like me out there in love. But when they hit you the first time, leave them, have them up and everything."

offered in the black community. At the center a person is examined by a cardiologist and receive other evaluations before they start their exercise program.

10 Appointments Open for Applicants

Ten slots on city and county boards and commissions, including the Parks and Recreation Commission and the Reynolds Health Center Advisory Committee, have been declared open for nominations.

Mayor Wayne A. Corpening is seeking nominations for the five positions on the Parks and Recreation Commission which become vacant in May. The body recommends policy regarding the operation and management of Salem Lake, recreation centers, parks, pools, and special recreation programs.

Corpening said interested persons should write him by May 2. The letter should include name, address, telephone number and an outline of personal attributes.

The Forsyth County Board of County Commissioners has deferred until their April 23 meeting appointments to two vacant slots on the RHC Advisory Committee, two appointments to the county Zoning Board of Adjustment and one appointment each to the Alcoholism Residential Care Authority, Inc., Nature Science Center and the Watershed Improvement Commission.

Unlike the city, the county commissioners do not solicit nominations in advance for their appointive boards. However, interested persons can contact a commissioner to have their names placed in nomination.

offenders, youth are also exposed to the law making process. Jones also coordinates a summer youth employment program where youth are placed in on the job training.

In the area of fitness, the Y offers a little league football program, basketball, karate and swimming.

"We try to stress value-oriented programs instead of win at all costs," said Robert Dunlap, sports director.

Also through the sports program, free physicals were given to kids where many physical defects were detected.

"Some of the kids had never had a physical or a vaccination and through the physicals, we were able to detect defects and the parents were able to get them corrected."

Also in the area of sports, the Y is beginning a soccer program and is continuing its boxing program, which is run by Austin Benjamin.

Basketball director Steve Hovis said he expects the soccer program to be a major sport next year.
