Program To Honor Adele Scott

Adele H. Scott

A 25-year teaching tribute will be given Sunday, Aug. 26 at New Bethel Baptist Church at 4 p.m. honoring Mrs. Adele H. Scott for her contributions in the field of music.

Mrs. Scott was considered a child prodigy because at the age of five began playing the piano without having studied it. She could play any type of music just by hearing it. She didn't receive her first piano lesson until she was 12 years of age.

"My sister took an interest in me and I began to study music," Mrs. Scott said. "Anything I heard I could play it but I couldn't read music and she knew that for me to go far I would have to know how to read music."

Also at the age of 12, Mrs. Scott was voted National Organist of the United Holy Church of America. She traveled around playing at conventions and for various churches.

Choosing music as a career came naturally to Mrs. Scott because music was all she had ever known.

"Music came natural for me as a career, because there is a very slim line between music and public relations," Mrs. Scott said. "I love people and playing music makes people happy, it does something to you."

Although she loved music she hadn't planned to go into teaching. After she had moved to Winston-Salem and had begun to raise a family, her traveling slowed and soon she was confined to local church duties.

"I hadn't planned to open a studio and began teaching, it developed basically because there was a demand from the public," Mrs. Scott said. "People began asking me if I would teach their child how to play the piano."

Her teaching job rose from just teaching a few in her living room to opening up a studio in her basement. As Mrs. Scott said, it "was like a chain reaction."

In addition to her teaching, Mrs. Scott also played for various churches. Ones in the city include: Gospel Tabernacle, Macedonia T.V.P. Holiness, St. Stephens Baptist, Shiloh Baptist, and Phillips Chapel churches.

"I don't plan to take anything else permanent" she said referring to her numerous previous jobs. "Forty-seven years on the bench is just too confining."

Mrs. Scott said the idea of a teaching tribute "just came up" and was not something she had planned to have. She said she had mixed emotions about the program but has grown very enthusiastic about it now.

Guest appearing on the program include, Rev. William R. Crawford, the guest speaker, Curtis Gardin, guest concert pianist and the Hussite Bell Choir Inc., which is directed by Rev. Jerome C. Livingood.

Mrs. Scott will also perform "Lead Me, Guide Me" and "Precious Memories" by special request, in a sing-a-long with the organ.

A reception will follow the program.

Dr. W. L. Wilson [middle] is awarded a plaque by Dr. C.C. Craig on behalf of the General Baptist State Convention of North Carolina at the 90th session of the High Point Education & Missionary Baptist Association. Mrs. Wilson looks on.

90th Missionary Session Held

The 90th annual session of the High Point Educational and Missionary Baptist Association was held Aug. 1-3 with the Morningstar Baptist Church of Winston-Salem where Rev. D.B. Salley is pastor.

Association's moderator Dr. Willie Lee Wilson and treasurer Roy Hopkins celebrated their 30th year in office. Dr. Wilson delivered his 30th annual address.

A song, "May the Work I've Done Speak For Me" preceded his address and was dedicated to him by Dr. Curtis Carrington. Dr. and Mrs. Wilson were presented flowers by Mrs. Annie Lewis, supervisor of the Junior and Young Adult Departments of the Women's Auxiliary and Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, president of the Women's Auxiliary.

Dr. C.C. Craig, executive secretary-treasurer of the General Baptist State Convention was the principal speaker during the session. Dr. Craig also presented a plaque on behalf of the General Baptist State Convention to Dr. W.L. Wilson for 50 years of dedicated service in the gospel ministry.

Dr. Wilson has been in the ministry since he was twelve. He has pastored First Calvary Baptist Church of Winston-Salem for 36 years and is also pastoring Bethlehem Baptist Church in Stoneville and the Yadkin Star Baptist Church of Lexington.

The general theme for the association was "We should let nothing separate us from the love of Christ." The theme was discussed by Martha White of Gethsemane, Greensboro and Cary McMillian of Morningstar, Winston-Salem.

The introductory, doctoral, missionary and memorial sermons were delivered by Rev. R.H. Brooks, pastor of Martin chapel, Mebane; Rev. J.B. Walker, pastor of Meltia Grove, Robbins; Rev. C.W. Leak, pastor of Phillips Chapel and Dr. C.M. Carrington, pastor of New Calvary, Greensboro respectively.

The young adult hour was presented by Dr. J.W. Reid, pastor of Gethsemane, Greensboro and Mrs. Carrie Barnes of Morningstar Baptist Church, Winston-Salem. Dr. Reid spoke on the need of christian educational programs in the local church. Mrs. Barnes presented a television panel discussion on faith, prayer, self-denial and christian service. Participants were Rev. King, Rev. Gilliam, pastor First Thessalonians, Rev. J.L. Montgomery and Dallas Baldwin.

Sixteen ministers were ordained during the session. Offerings and church reports were given to Central Orphanage of Oxford and Shaw University, Raleigh. A scholarship was awarded to Dessie Ray Scales, a freshman at Winston-Salem State University and a member of Morningstar Baptist Church.

The association is comprised of 28 churches and three auxiliaries.

Native Returns To Preach

Evangelist Doris C. Ginyard, a former Anderson High School and Winston-Salem State University graduate will return to Winston-Salem to preach during a revival to be held at the Holy Ghost Miracle Fellowship Center Church on Sunday, Aug. 26 at 7:30 p.m.

Evangelist Ginyard resided in this city 21 years before leaving for New Jersey to become a school teacher. She taught for eight years in the ghetto area of Newark.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Effie Ginyard Gilliam who resides at 2221 E. 24th St. in the city.

Ginyard resigned her job as school teacher in order to preach the gospel.

The revival will be held at the church, located at 4304 Old Walkertown Road for an extended period of time. The pastor of the church is Evangelist Ruth C. Calhoun.

The Holiness of God

Ancient world gods were mere enlargements of fallen men in their cruelty, capriciousness, indifference to virtue, and indulgence in vice. Seldom did voices protest, "If the gods do evil, they are not gods". Sinful men are not likely to devise a holy God. We learn to live with unhappiness. This our moral shock at the sight of the ineffable purity of the true God evokes a cry, "Who is able to stand before this holy Lord God," 1 Sam. 6:20.

Jehovah alone of ancient world gods claimed, "I am holy," Lev. 19:2. He is the "Holy One of Israel", whose name is holy, dwelling in the high and holy place, Isa. 10:20; 7:15. God's holiness is measureless, incomprehensible purity, perfect in love of righteousness and hatred of sin for He is of "purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on iniquity", Hab. 1:13.

When his justice and judgements seem like severity and tyranny; his love like respect of persons towards some; his patience like toleration of sin, his holiness frees him from all suspicion of evil, (Ralph Venning).

The Scriptures declare that there are "none holy as the Lord", 1 Sam. 2. The holiness of angels and men is not of themselves, and is changeable as shown in the fall of both. God only is originally and immutable holy.

God has made holiness to be the moral condition necessary to the health of the universe (A.W. Tozer). Indeed, the word holy is an old English term meaning well or whole. Sin is moral sickness degrading creation, and it evokes God's wrath or holy displeasure.

God gave the Mosaic Law to impress Israel and the world since then, the idea of his holiness and urge upon them the necessity of leading holy lives. However, the Law which is "holy just and good", Roms. 7:12, far from helping us to holy living, actually exposes our sins, condemns, and shows our utter inability to purify ourselves. For "who can bring a clean thing out of an unclean?" Job 14:4. We must go to God who alone can cleanse us saying, "I am the Lord that sanctify thee", Lev. 20:8. He imputes our sins to Christ who suffers for them, and puts Jesus' righteousness to the credit of believing sinners. He imparts His Holy Spirit into our hearts to love holiness and do His will daily. Bearing in mind that "without holiness no man shall see the Lord", Heb. 12:14, let us "perfect holiness in the fear of God", 2 Cor. 7:1.
