

Black Donations Exceed Million to UNCF Colleges

National black organizations gave more than $1 million to the United Negro College Funds, a peak in black philanthropy, according to a UNCF official.

Virgil Ecton, national campaign director, told a group of local corporate executives and other leaders last Thursday that the increased black giving is a key to improving the financial status of the 41 predominately black private colleges supported by the fund.

Last year, the fund raised $16.5 million, the highest total ever and an increase of 7.3 per cent over 1977, said Ecton. UNCF also successfully launched a $15 million in pledges and gifts.

Ecton spoke at the kickoff luncheon hosted by Western Electric for the local corporate campaign. Jack Childs, general manager of the N.C. Works of Western Electric, announced a local 1979 goal of $85,000.

Assistant area director Cynthia Perry said afterwards. "The response from the luncheon has been encouraging and we are expecting a good return from Winston-Salem corporations as a result." Childs noted, "Already, we have $13,000 more than we did last year this time."

Six of the member colleges -- Barber Scotia, Bennet, Livingstone, St. Augustine and Johnson C. Smith and Shaw Universities -- are located in North Carolina.

During the discussion with Nifong, Gilliam also complained that boundaries for precincts and wards are gerrymandered so as to reduce black representation.

"The whole city's not right as far as black representation is concerned," said Gilliam. "For instance, Mrs. Newell's district goes almost across town."

Nifong agreed that ward lines are "way out of line. The East and Northeast Wards go from here to yonder," he said.

The party chairman explained that boundaries for wards, state legislative seats and Congressional districts will be reapportioned following the 1980 census. "Those are all political decisions, subject to judicial review," said Nifong.

He noted that precinct boundaries are determined by the local Board of Elections, based on the budget allotted by the county.

Earlier during the meeting, Larry Womble resigned as precinct chairman because party rules forbid his serving as both a precinct official and a second chairman of the county party.

John McCullough, former first vice chairman of the precinct, was elected to succeed Womble. Spurgeon Griggs Jr. was named first vice chairman.

Griggs, also chairman of the Winston-Salem Improvement Association, gave a brief presentation on the aims of the organization.

families don't have the money," Thornton said.

"However in some communities, drinking is considered to be chic, sophisticated and a socially accepted way of life."

Statistics show that alcohol contributes to one-third of all the suicides, one-half of all the murders, one half of all the tragic deaths and one fourth of the other tragic deaths in this country. Alcohol also contributes to thousands of birth defects each year.

Another problem Thornton said, is the increase in teen drinking. She said there are 2.3 million teenagers that drink alcohol.

The black woman alcoholic is not confined to a certain class and can be found in the lower income as well as the upper class, said the Durham city councilman.

"In our case studies we have not found the black female alcoholic to be a hidden drinker, but to be one who drinks openly and in the company of others," Thornton said. "The woman drinker is often protected by her children, with the children assuming the responsibility of keeping their mother from being discovered or detected."

In order to help the black female abuser, Thornton said that care should be made accessible to the abuser.

Career-A-Rama Scheduled

By Yvette McCullough Staff Writer

High school seniors in Winston-Salem/Forsyth County will have the opportunity Oct. 8-9 to meet with over 60 representatives of area businesses during a Career-A-Rama being sponsored by the Youth Career Development Program of the Winston-Salem Urban League and its Commerce and Industry Council and the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System.

The Career-A-Rama will be an informal gathering giving high school seniors a chance to interact with business representatives concerning the different careers available to them, and will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

"The session will give the students an idea of what to expect in the business world," said Gary Henderson, director of the Youth Career Development Program. "It will be a career awareness session and will be more for educational value, because the seniors will not be seeking employment, but guidance."

The session will also include a luncheon, with

Richard Stockton, President of the Chamber of Commerce; Palmer Friend, assistant superintendent of Winston-Salem/Forsyth County Schools and Celia Combs, institutional representative with Southern Bell Telephone and chairperson of the career-a-rama as the speakers.

The National Urban League has instituted having the program because of the high employment rate of blacks and minorities in the county, Henderson said.

"It was felt that if the students were made aware of the skills and training needed to get a job, they would know what to expect and may have an easier transition from school to work."

A group of ninth graders from Anderson High School would also be participating in the sessions as a control group.

"We're trying to see if career awareness should be made available at an earlier age, so that is why we're using ninth graders," said Ann Wherry, job development specialist and a coordinator of the career-a-rama.
