

During Homecoming

WSSU Celebrates 89th Year

By Yvonne Anderson
Staff Writer

This week marks the celebration on Homecoming at Winston-Salem State University and with the usual flow of anticipation that this annual college event brings comes the added plus of a worthwhile homecoming show for the students, gala receptions for the alumni and an exciting game for the football fans.

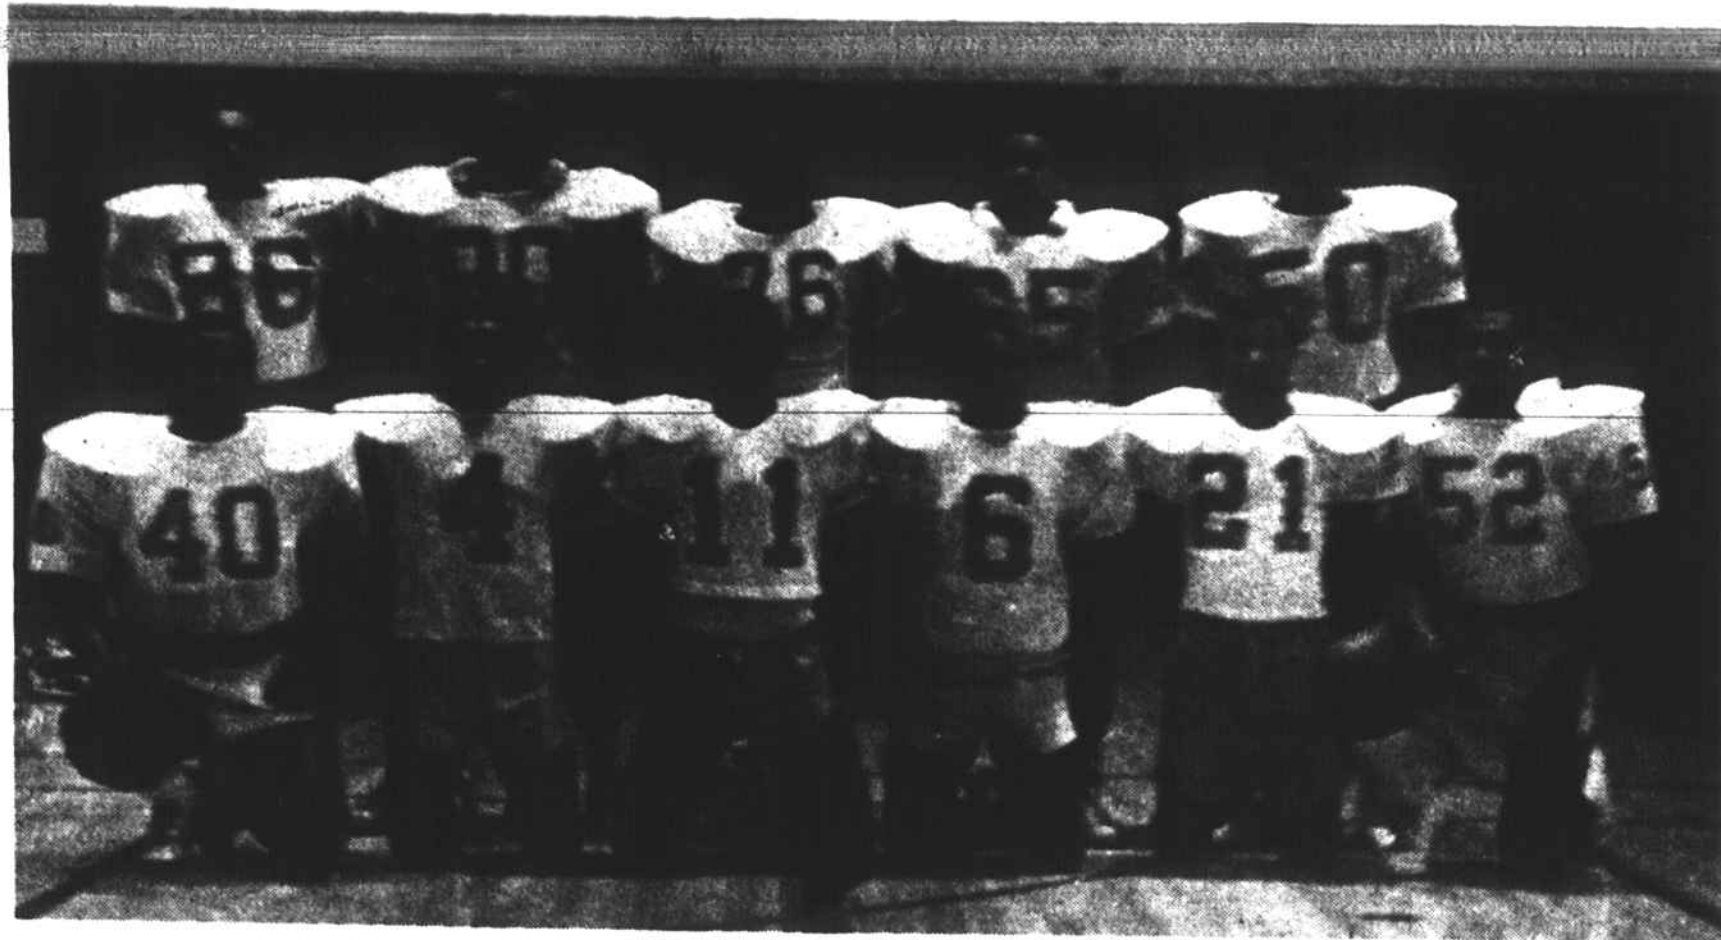

The week kicked off with a Gospel Singing at the Kenneth R. Williams Auditorium Sunday night. The choir of WSSU and that of Macedonia True Vine Pentecostal Holiness Church were the performers for the premier event.

Monday through Wednesday provided many opportunities for students to participate in the festivities. On Monday, a double feature, showcasing, "Corn Bread, Earl and Me," and "Cooley High," was sponsored, while a splash party was held at the C.E. Gaines Complex pool on Tuesday evening. The Student Government Association, under the direction of president Michael Sutton, held a student assembly Wednesday, entertaining questions from the student body and reporting on the progress of the SGA this year. Wednesday was also designated as student appreciation day by the student government association.

Tonight will be highlighted by the coronation of Miss WSSU, Zenobia Nelson, and her court. Nelson is a senior nursing major, pursuing a minor in both biology and English. She is a 21-year-old Aquarian, hailing from Concord, N.C.

Veronica Oates, 21, reigns as Miss Senior. A native of Winston-Salem, Oates is a nursing major born under the sign of Pisces.

Miss Junior is Cynthia Hicks. She is a 20-year-old Taurus majoring in mathematics hailing from 40-Carlton "Smiley" Watson, 86-Eddie Sauls, 4-Chris King, 1J-Ernest Mitchell, 21-Jack Cameron, 65-Fitzgerald McGill, 76-Tim Platt, 52-Harrison Stokes, 90-Daniel Bryson, 6-David Pearson, and 50-Michael Warren.

Henderson, N.C.

Miss Sophomore takes the personality of Gail Welch. At age 19, Welch is a computer science major, born under the sign of Gemini Twins.

Representing the freshman class is Kathy Beatrice Bryant who is a Taurean from Wilmington, N.C. Bryant is also a nursing major who wants to become a maternal nurse after graduation.

Nelson chose this year's Homecoming theme of "Everything Must Change: Wings of Progress," and the coronation will be followed by the Coronation Ball at the M.C. Benton Convention Center at 9 p.m.

Friday's activities will begin with a Founder's Day Observance in which Chancellor Douglas Covington will speak. The university is celebrating its 89th year and special tribute will be given to Simon Green Atkins, the founder of the school. The event is open to the community, as
