TOO BAD...

...She missed your message

She's one of the women of today who works outside the home. She has her own career, she's independent and she's always on the go. She isn't responsive to your message on the radio or your advertisement on television. Her mind is occupied with the business of the day. More than likely she'll even be too busy to grasp it tonight. After going home from work she'll probably change her clothes, fix dinner, clean up the kitchen, help the children with homework and then get them off to bed. Finally, she has a little time for herself. That's when she relaxes with the Winston-Salem Chronicle, and that's where she'll get your message.

The Chronicle was there waiting for her all day, and more important, it was there at her convenience. Be wise. Don't put your message somewhere she can't reach for it. Send her your message in the Chronicle. Just try it. She'll benefit from it and so will you, because it'll be there when she has time for it!
