

Forward Brad Daugherty (42) of the University of North Carolina Tarheels scores an easy one against James Madison University in last week's NCAA tournament play in Greensboro. The Tarheels take on Ohio State in the Eastern semifinals this weekend (photo by Joe Daniels).

Ask Barry

Dorsett Makes Big Bucks On Side

By BARRY COOPER
Syndicated Columnist

Q. A friend of mine says players like Tony Dorsett make as much off the field through endorsements and such, as they do on. Is this true? — Michael Henderson, Atlanta.

A. Your friend may be right, but there is no way of knowing for certain, unless you can gain access to Tony D's IRS reports. However, Dorsett is said to make about $330,000 a year with the Cowboys. He also reportedly commands $1,500 for a one-hour autograph session and $75,000 for endorsement of a national product. It's a good bet that Dorsett makes more than half-a-million dollars a year.

Q. Can you tell me what the highest and lowest salary will be in the United States Football League? — Mary Thomas, The Virgin Islands.

A. There are no set minimums or maximums. Reports say some players were signed for as little as $12,000 per year, while Craig James of the Washington Federals reportedly signed a four-year deal worth $500,000 per season.

Q. I wonder why you don't see more current athletes in those beer commercials. What's the deal? — Barry Anderson, Spartanburg, S.C.

A. The deal is that current pro athletes are not allowed to make beer commercials for television by the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC figures a lot of young people are influenced by present-day athletes, and that if those athletes are shown on TV guzzling beer, young folks might go out and do the same.

Q. Can you tell me why Jim Brown isn't making movies any more? — Mary Singleton, Detroit.

A. The same reason few other black actors and actresses are working — racism. Hollywood isn't doling out many parts to blacks. However, Brown has a starring role in "One Down, Three To Go," a movie produced by Fred Williamson.

Q. Do you think Sugar Ray Leonard will stay retired? — Ned Smith, New York.

A. Yes, I think so. The next year or so will tell the story, however. Interestingly, Thomas "Hit Man" Hearns, who lost a close fight to Leonard a year or so ago, says Sugar Ray won't be able to stay away from the ring, at least not in this point in his career.

Q. Can you tell me if all of the black college athletes taken in the United States Football League draft will make the team? — Sara Richardson, Atlanta.
Please see page 16

American Red Cross
+
We'll Help. Will You?
A Public Service of This Newspaper & The Advertising Council

Cortaid
The most powerful relief of itching skin irritations, itching and rashes.
Cortaid
ALL YOU NEED FOR MINOR ITCHES AND RASHES.

Pk 'n Pay Shoes
Sale. Men's dress shoes.
2 pairs $20
single pair $12
Black or brown. D and EEE widths. Reg. $15.97
Shop these Winston-Salem area stores...
1. East Winston Shopping Center, 570 Claremont Avenue
2. 2853 North Liberty Street
3. Loehmann's Plaza, 3614 Reynolda Rd.
4. 2942 Woughtown Street ...and Pk'n Pay stores everywhere.
Sales prices good thru Sun. MasterCard or Visa. Open evenings and open Sun. 1-6pm.
All men's dress socks... 1/2 OFF

Fishing

A 'Favorite-Lure' Fisherman

By GEORGE BOOIE
Chronicle Columnist

March, as expected, did a bit of backsliding and I was more than a little disappointed.

You see, during the middle of March I landed my first big bass, an eight-pounder.

So, every year at this time, I go out with the hopes of repeating the feat that, in my opinion, really made history.

Of course, since then, I have caught bass in that weight class and even above at least once -- an 11-pounder, on a flyrod yet, at Winston Lake.

I happen to be one of those "favorite-lure fishermen." The Rapala floater has been my favorite since I hung a nine-pound, nine ounce largemouth, of course, at Winston Lake.

I dropped in at JiLeKe Sport Supply Inc. down on Peters Creek Parkway to pick up another original Rapala.

It is a handmade Finnish lure that floats and dives, depending upon the retrieve.

The price was right on a Johnson's silver minnow, so I added one to my tackle box.

I was certainly surprised to see so many bargains in fishing tackle plus discounts.

There were jigs of all sorts and colors, just what one would need for the early crappie and white bass fishing. While there, you may get your reels rewound with any test line you desire.

If you are having fun crappie fishing with a cane pole or spinning outfit, you have not experienced anything until you get into it with an ultra-light rod and reel wound with 4 or 6 test line. If they are not sold out, your best bet and bargain will be found at JiLeKe.

In the meantime, don't be discouraged about this change in the weather; just be prepared to wet those lines when the sun comes through.

DEADLINE FOR ALL COMMUNITY NEWS IS MONDAY 5:30 P.M.

Black College Briefs From Page 14

is that we have some major metropolitan areas close by. We do a lot of recruiting in Philadelphia."

Cheyney is a predominantly black school of about 2,000 students.

"The (federal) budget cutbacks have hurt us," says Lawrence. "We lost 400 students in January when their financial aid ran out."

WASHINGTON -- In the wake of Herschel Walker's signing with the United States Football League, several top college football coaches gathered in the nation's capital to lobby for a bill that would prohibit players from leaving college early.

Among those testifying for the bill were Penn State Coach Joe Paterno and Michigan Coach Bo Schemblecher.

They told a Senate committee that chaos would develop if players were allowed to sign with pro football teams before their college careers were finished. However, officials of the NCAA testified that it could not support the bill, because it might stand in the way of a player who stood to gain by coming out of college early.

Others testifying against the proposal included Ed Garvey, president of the National Football League Player's Association.

WASHINGTON -- The United States Football League has adopted a hard line against drug abuse among its players. The new league says it will not tolerate drug abuse, but at the same time announced that a special counseling program, called Project Sports, would be established to help players deal with potential problems.

The program is said to be the first of its kind in pro sports. A USFL official said Project Sports is designed to "stop a problem before it happens."

Black College Sports From Page 14

to fall back on if they haven't gotten their education?"

McGuire, who is white, developed a reputation for being able to relate to black players while he was coach at Marquette.

"I don't know what it is," he said. "But I have always been able to go into the inner city and relate to the black kids there. If I knew what the reason was, I'd bottle it and sell it to other coaches."

McGuire made his comments at the recent Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference basketball tournament. He represented Miller Brewing Co. at a tournament breakfast.

Black Quarterbacks Abound In USFL

In its first year of existence, the United States Football League is coming close to playing more black quarterbacks than the National Football League has in its entire history.

The Boston Breakers' starting quarterback is John

Walton, an Elizabeth City State graduate and former head coach. The Birmingham Stallions start Reggie Collier of Southern Mississippi. Also, Joe Gilliam, formerly of the Pittsburgh Steelers and Tennessee State, was granted a tryout recently with the Washington Federals.

High School All-Star Team From Page 14

down, averaging 19 points and five assists a game as a forward. Coe shot 54 percent from the field and 81 percent from the free throw line.

"I've seen a lot of good guards in the state this season," says one area coach, "and I'm convinced that Howard Coe is as good as any of them. He was playing out of position for his team this year, but he is definitely going to make a fine college guard."

At 6-2, Willie Ashford of North Forsyth was one of the city's smallest centers, but it didn't stop the talented senior from averaging 16 points and nine rebounds a game this season.

"We had to play him out of position," says Reynolds Coach Olon Shuler. "He is a true small forward, but he did an outstanding job for us this season."

Other players who turned in good seasons were Mike Reid of Reynolds and Chuck Willard and Greg Scales of East Forsyth.

GET READY!

More Black College Sports Are Coming Your Way April 7th!

Be prepared for an exciting issue-packed full of features such as:

COVERAGE OF THE NCAA TOURNAMENT...

...CIAA/MEAC CHRONICLE ALL-STAR TEAM & PLAYER OF THE YEAR

A LOOK BACK AT THE MEAC TOURNAMENT...

...A LOOK AHEAD TO SPRING SPORTS

A FURTHER LOOK AT PROPOSITION 48...

AND MUCH MORE!

DON'T MISS THIS ACTION-PACKED ISSUE
SUBSCRIBE NOW!

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____ CITY _____
STATE _____ ZIP _____

Enclose check or money order for $15.00 & mail to:
CIRCULATION DEPT.
BLACK COLLEGE SPORTS REVIEW
P.O. BOX 3154
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. 27102

8 ISSUES ONLY $15.00