Preventing Burglaries
 It is estimated that more than half of the illegal entries into homes have been through doors.
 Breaking windows or climbing through them tends to attract unwanted attention. Would your present door lock offer much resistance to a would-be burglar? Sixteen percent of burglaries committed in the city in 1982 required no force to effect entry.
 Some tips of keeping your home safe from burglary:
 •Check your entry doors.
 •Make sure your doors have dead-latches.

•Make sure your striker plate is installed properly.
 •Remember, the best locks in the world are no good if you open your doors to strangers -- or don't lock them.

BUICK SKYHAWK

Front-wheel drive in a Buick? Great. But I figured I'd forfeit luxury when I slid into Buick's smallest car. Well, all I lost was a parking problem. The fit? Roomy and sinfully luxurious. Five ride in comfort, no dieting required. Skyhawk feels Buick big and yet gas consumption is downright dietetic! If you'd really rather have a smaller Buick—you can still get real Buick comfort. In the luxurious Skyhawk. Move in, and make yourself at home.

Escape Plans Help Save Lives

You've just awakened. It's 3 a.m. and something smells a little strange ... smoke! The house is on fire! Quick, what to do?
 The fire-wise family takes steps to ensure it knows what to do at a time like that. Here's how to develop a home escape plan to get every family member out of the house if fire strikes.
 The first step is to install a UL-listed smoke detector outside the bedrooms and sleep with all doors closed, even the smallest child's room. This gives you early warning of fire and minimizes smoke build-up in the bedrooms.
 Now, draw a rough floor plan of your home. Decide on two ways to evacuate each room -- a fire in the hallway, for instance, could preclude escape through the bedroom doors. From some second-floor windows, it may be possible to climb from the window to a garage or porch roof from which to jump to the ground.
 Other bedroom windows look out on a stark, two-story drop. Check this out and buy escape ladders for the windows that require them. These folding metal ladders are generally attached to the floor under the window so they can be thrown out and dropped down when needed. Make sure everyone whose room is equipped with a ladder practices deploying the ladder and climbing down it.
 Now that every room is equipped with two ways out,
