SECCA Announces Two Staff Appointments

The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) has announced two staff appointments, which were effective Oct. 3.

Pamela L. Lee has been promoted to the position of assistant education coordinator, and Wanda Montgomery has joined the staff as education program assistant.

Lee, a native of Anderson, S.C., received her bachelor's degree in art from Western Carolina University. Prior to joining the SECCA staff in February, she was an intern at the Greenville (S.C.) County Museum of Art.

Montgomery received her bachelor's degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1981 and participated in a special studies program at Gardner-Webb College. Prior to joining the SECCA staff, Montgomery was an intern production assistant for the Smithsonian Institution and a summer intern in community arts administration for the North Carolina Arts Council.

New Book Published

Dr. Lenwood G. Davis

Dr. Lenwood G. Davis, associate professor of history at Winston-Salem State University, recently published a book on former boxing champion Joe Louis.

Titled "Joe Louis: A Bibliography of Articles, Books, Pamphlets, Records and Archival Materials," the book was published by Greenwood Press of Westport, Conn. According to Davis, the 256-page work is the most comprehensive work ever done on the internationally known boxer.

Louis, known as the "Brown Bomber," is the heavyweight champion who claimed the crown and defended it successfully more times than any other fighter. At the height of his career, Louis was famous throughout the world.

Although much has been written on Louis, reference information about those works had never been gathered before in one source. Davis' book is the first book-length bibliography about Louis and his career.

Davis is also the author of numerous other works on black history.
