Mrs. Hairston Honored At Party

A dinner party honoring Mrs. Isabelle Brown Hairston on her 83rd birthday was held recently at the Park Place Restaurant in the Sawtooth Center for Visual Design.

Approximately 85 relatives and guests attended the party given by Mrs. Hairston's children, Mrs. Charmin Mauney, who served as mistress of ceremonies, and Adam Hairston of Winston-Salem, John Hairston of Washington, D.C., Mrs. Mazella Anderson of Springfield, Mass., Roger Hairston, Mrs. Doris Battiste and Robert Hairston of Los Angeles.

Highlights of the program were tributes from Mrs. Hairston's sons, John and Roger, and her granddaughter, Sylvia, a special rendition of "Precious Lord" by her daughter, Doris, and the song "Mother" sung by all the children. The Rev. Kelly

O.P. Goodwin was the speaker for the occasion and Mrs. Flora Alexander, accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Speight, was soloist. The invocation was given by the Rev. Ira McCullough.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Dorothy Hunter of Detroit, Mrs. Mary Woods, Mr. and Mrs. William Grogan Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Bailey, Ms. Laura Bailey, Mrs. Joyce Simmons and William Gorgan Jr. of Roanoke, Va., Ms. Johnnie Redd of Hyattsville, Md., Marvin Hairston of Capitol Heights Md., John Hairston and Mr. and Mrs. David Hairston of Washington, D.C., Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hairston, Jr. of Fort Seal, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. DeEdward Watson of Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Stokes Hairston, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hairston and Mrs. Verona Bell of Lexington.

Mrs. Hairston has 22 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

TV just there to be seen," she says, "and (it) disturbs me that a lot of them are more concerned with putting on suits and wearing high heels.

"I put on my old raggedy shoes and I'm comfortable," Jones says, pointing down at her tan loafers. "I have to look good from the waist up. I'm just an everyday, down-home girl from Savannah, Ga., who's trying to sell ability, not appearance."

This is Jones' first interview on the other side of the pen and pad since she was a teen-ager making history in Savannah. And talking with her is just like having an early morning break with a girlfriend.

Her warmth and friendly personality are probably the result of her Southern upbringing.

"This is just like talking to somebody and that's how I try to do my interviews," she says. "People will talk to you if you don't come off authoritatively.

"Convincing people that you're just an everyday person is one of the hardest parts of this job," she says. "I can't even go to church or the mall without people recognizing me and they are shocked when I speak. A lot of reporters thrive off that. This is just a job to me, not an ego trip, and I don't think I'll ever change, just mature. I will always be Davida Jones."

Since she covers the Winston area, Jones now makes her home in Kernersville and says she is impressed with the Triad.

"The Triad is much more laid back than Birmingham. I really fought there," says Jones. "North Carolina is a place where you buy a cottage, get a white picket fence and raise 2.5 children. There's no need for viciousness here."

Jones is a down-home girl whose concern about people is just as real as her off-camera personality. And if there are any ill feelings about her, they're probably still in Savannah, right where she left the dreamers who only wanted autographs.

ENG TRAP

A $10,000 Shopping Spree

The chance to win a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity awaits all who enter a new sweepstakes. Fifty grand prizes—each a $10,000 shopping spree at Zales, the Diamond Store—will be awarded in this exciting sweepstakes.

Entry blanks can be found in special "Diamond Royale" sweepstakes displays at participating Revlon retailers where Flex shampoo, conditioner and hair spray are sold. To enter the contest, however, no purchase is necessary.

A half million dollars worth of jewelry will go to winners in a new sweepstakes.

Sweepstakes boxes for complete entries are in the eight hundred Zales stores. Participants should deposit the sweepstakes forms before October 31. Special instructions for mailing in entries appear on each entry form.

Random drawings will be held on December 31, to pick one winner from each of the 48 contiguous United States and two from the national mail-in entries.

Each winner can select $10,000 in merchandise from the exciting collection in Zales jewelry stores. Merchandise ranges from popular-priced to extremely expensive jewelry and watches.

numbers, we will be forced to boycott," Hairston said. "Black people need to know this and they need to support our efforts to get things changed."

Locally, there are seven Food Lion stores. The one most heavily used by black patrons is located in the East Winston Shopping Center. "If the boycott works (in Winston-Salem), we can tell it by that store," Hairston said.

Eugene McKinley, vice president of personnel for Food Lion Inc. in Salisbury, said in a telephone interview Monday that the plans for a boycott of Food Lion stores is news to the company and that the fact sheet is in error.

"I am surprised of the fact sheet because they certainly don't have the facts," McKinley said. "And I don't know where they got their facts from."

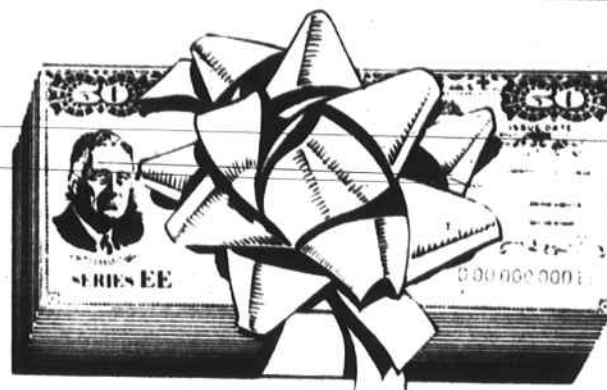

He added that Food Lion executives met with Fair Share representatives from the NAACP about a year ago and "studied their requests in great detail."

But, McKinley said, "I'm disappointed with a proposed fact sheet that does not have the facts. We have not had correspondence with the NAACP with regard to this and I am surprised they put out a fact sheet without discussing it with us."

McKinley called the report a "one-sided approach" to solving what the NAACP perceives as a problem.

Food Lion, formerly known as Food Town, operates stores in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Tennessee. Food Lion stores stock 8,000 items and had 39,577,863 customers in 1982 with an average of $15.16 spent by each customer.

Ralph Keener serves as the chain's president, but it is owned and controlled by Delhaize LeLoir, a foreign corporation headquartered in Brussels, Belgium, which owns 52.8 percent of the issued and outstanding stock.

A present for the future.

Did you ever hear of returning a Savings Bond because someone had too many? No, that's something you'll never hear.

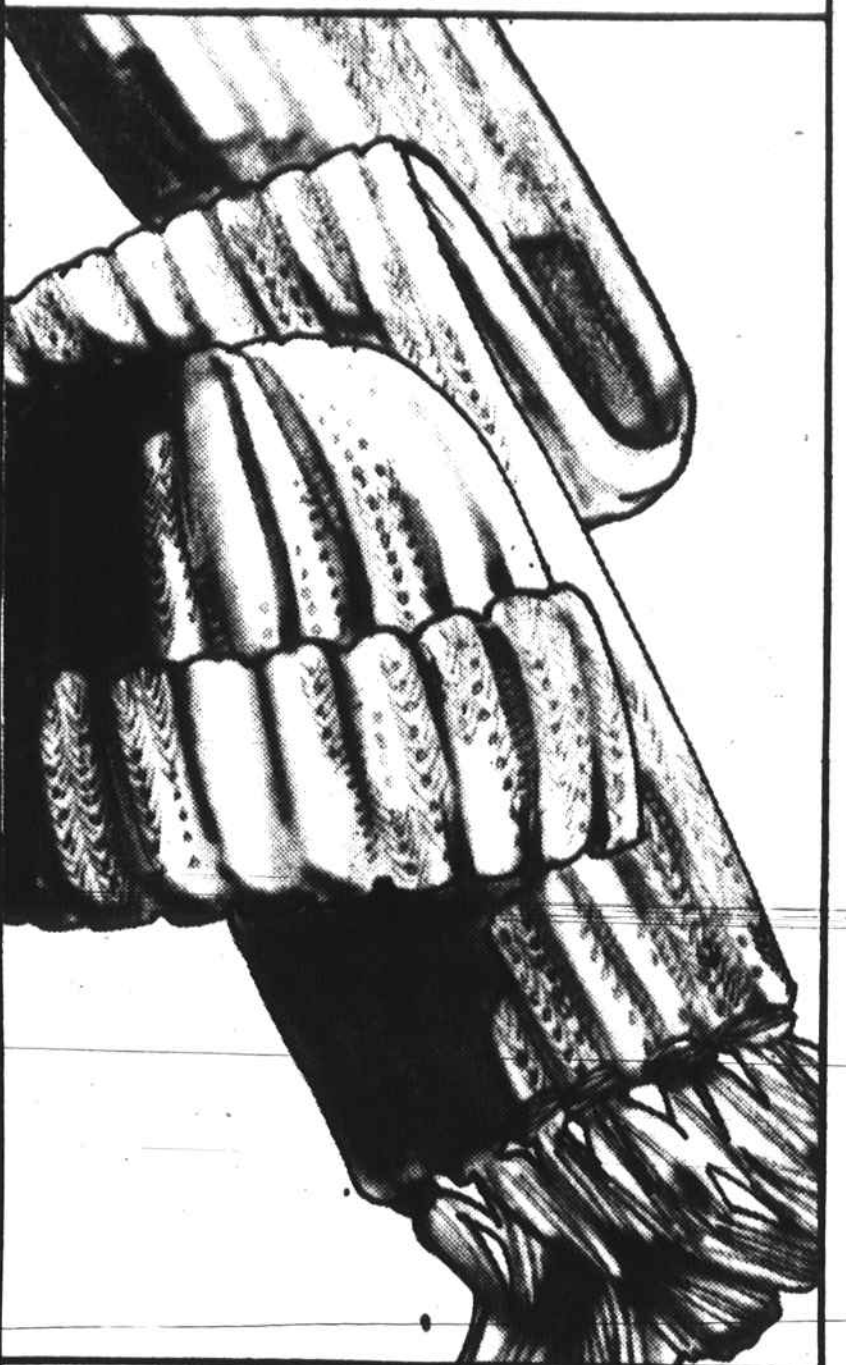

There's never a problem on Christmas morning if someone has two of the same thing. Even the third, fourth, or fifth Savings Bond is as welcome as the first.

So don't give someone you love their third chafing dish. This Christmas, give a present for the future. Give U.S. Savings Bonds.
