How To Commemorate King's Birthday

By AUDREY L. WILLIAMS
Staff Writer

The Chronicle polled area citizens and asked them if they will do anything special this year to commemorate the birthday of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Jeanette Jordan, housewife: "I'll probably wear a black ribbon because we used to do that in high school."

Theo Hicks, employee at WSSU: "I doubt if I'll do anything special, but I will put in a good prayer for him and thank the Lord that he hasn't been forgotten."

Vanessa Blount, employee at Pizza Express North: "As soon as I find an event in his honor, I'll be there because he's one of the people who really did a lot for us. We owe him that much."

Richard Davis, factory supervisor: "We're supposed to have the day off at my job, so I'll be listening to the radio station that will be airing a program about Dr. King."

Tonya Parks, telephone solicitor: "I really did like Dr. King and I thought he was a fabulous person. I will probably attend some of the events in his honor."

Herman Fulton, retired Air Force lieutenant: "I'll stay on on my knees a little longer and say a good prayer because Dr. King was a good man."

Bobby Roebuck, high school student: "They're not doing anything at my school, so I guess I'll have to get out on my own and attend an event in Dr. King's honor."

The Rev. C.E. Greene, minister: "I'll just rejoice and be glad we can go in from the front door instead of the back."

Anthony Patterson, employee at Merita: "I don't know how I'll celebrate Dr. King's birthday, but I'll find something."

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

CONFIDENCE MAN...

One way we can serve you better is with better people.

Meet Willie Guess. We found him to be the kind of individual our customers can have confidence in. That's why we hired him.

That's why you should get to know Willie before you buy your next new car. He'll serve you well.

As we look to the New Year before us, it is enlightening to consider the perspective and vision of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., whose thoughts, words, deeds, and actions have become an indelible part of the American Spirit.

We salute Dr. King, a true patriot and indomitable champion of human rights, on the occasion of his Birthday celebration.
