

The YWCA's 1984 Leadership Awards Luncheon, held last Thursday, recognized four members of the community for service they have contributed throughout the year. Tom Elijah and Jimmie Sudler, top, were presented the Corporate Award which recognizes the efforts of local businesses to implement changes that will significantly affect the employment and/or working environment of women. Marianne Steintrager, middle, president of Interfaith Housing, was presented the Volunteer Award which honors local women who, through volunteer efforts, have had a positive and significant impact on our community. Annie Hairston, bottom, principal at Kimberley Park Alternative School, was presented the Career Award which recognizes and honors local women who have demonstrated excellence, leadership and achievement in their chosen field (photos by James Parker).

down the sideline to the end zone. However, both teams had begun to run on and off the field, thinking the ball had been downed. The officials eventually levied offsetting illegal substitution penalties against both teams, with the down being replayed.

When its coaching staff protested, North was hit with a 15-yard unsportsmanlike conduct penalty which helped Hickory reach paydirt.

Neither team could muster much offense thereafter and Hickory's final points were the result of a North miscue. North returner Charles Baldwin fumbled a punt on the Viking 21, which set up the winning kick, a 33-yard field goal by Rhoney. Those points came with only 3:41 remaining in the game.

three starters sidelined with injuries, and 169 yards' worth of penalties, the Ram offense continued to show improvement. WSSU totaled 222 yards rushing and 302 yards of total offense.

"I thought the offensive line blocked real well," said sophomore fullback Leonardo Horn, who led the Ram offensive attack with 131 yards. "We had a couple of new players on the line and I think they did a good job of stepping in for the guys who were injured."

The three replacements -- guards Leslie Tanner and Darryl Page and tackle Keith Holland -- all performed admirably, as the WSSU offense controlled the football for 35 minutes of the contest, keeping Praylon and the high-powered Eagle offense off the field.

"We played hard because we really wanted to beat Central; right now, we're in the driver's seat," Horn said, referring to the CIAA Southern Division title. "Our momentum from the win over A&T carried over to this game and I think the momentum from this game will carry over to our game against Virginia Union."

The Rams, who lost twice to Union last year, will try to keep their three-game win streak intact when the Panthers visit Bowman Gray Stadium Saturday. Union, under first-year Coach Joe Taylor, will try to get back on the winning track after losing 13-11 to Hampton last Saturday and being tied 22-22 by Fayetteville State the week before.

"We owe Virginia Union something," Horn said, remembering the Rams' disappointing loss in the CIAA championship game a year ago. "They beat us bad and we want to make up for it."
