Outstanding men named

Twelve local men were recently named Outstanding Young Men of America and will be included in the 1984 edition of the annual book.

The men selected include Nigel D. Alston, Albert R. Anderson Jr., Preston B. Horn Jr., Roland Cooper, Thomas J. Elijah III, Clifton E. Graves Jr., Andrew Hargrove, Thomas Johnson, Christopher N. Manning, David A. Mickle, Rodney Vincent Rice and Calvin Alonzo Smart.

These men were selected from nominations received from senators, congressmen, governors, mayors, state legislators, university and college presidents and deans as well as various civic groups, including the United States Jaycees, which also endorses the Outstanding Young Men of America program.

In every community there are young men working diligently to make their cities, as well as their country, better places in which to live. These men, having distinguished themselves in one or more fields of endeavor, are outstanding and deserve to be recognized for their achievements. The criteria for selection include a man's voluntary service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation.

The local men, along with fellow Outstanding Young Men throughout North America will be featured in this prestigious annual awards publication.

Students: Learning is fun

Students at Easton Elementary School have discovered that creative dramatics and painting can be fun.

With supervision from Jeannie St. Clair, drama specialist, the children were able to correlate science, social studies, reading and math in a learning experience.

Chlories Shore's first-grade class was transformed into an Indian village last week in observance of National Indian Week. St. Clair and Shore provided the children with a lesson that will not soon be forgotten. The students didn't memorize parts for the play. They created their own production as the "Tribe of the Good Workers." The children were very serious as they went about their responsibilities as citizens in an Indian village many years ago. One smiling student said he really liked sharing and caring for others.

Five students from each of the kindergarten and first-grade classes came to one classroom for the sessions. During the class, the children learned that they all had something they could do well.

Shore, who is also the administrative assistant at Easton, believes that educators must continue to provide varied and stimulating growth experiences for children.

Margaret Underwood, an art specialist, taught a class of 25 kindergarten and first-grade students a painting lesson using the same Indian Week theme.

Shawnta Jones' painting was on display at the Dixie Classic Fair. Shawnta is a first-grader in Ms. Susan Wall's class.

Other students at the school worked with clay, as they participated in the art lesson taught by Ms. Underwood.

On Oct. 2 and 4, the specialist returned to Easton to work with second-, third-, fourth- and fifth-graders.

The ABC staff specialist from the local city-county school system is Dr. Jody Sutlive, specializing in movement and dance. She will work with the students at Easton next semester.

Drama, art and dance movement have been added to the school system's curriculum. The city-county staff will work in all of system's 29 elementary schools to provide additional opportunities for growth for students in the local schools.

Mrs. Norman King is the principal at Easton.

Pregnancy

turning 14 this year, 780,000 can be expected to give birth at least once again and 300,000 teens will have at least one abortion.

The statistics for North Carolina are similar, but higher than those for the United States. Based on information from the Center for Population Options, North Carolina was ranked 9th in the nation in the number of teenage pregnancies, 10th in the number of live births to teenagers and 12th in the nation in the number of live births to teenagers under 15.

In 1982, 92 per 1,000 teenagers ages 15 to 19 in North Carolina and 86 per 1,000 teenagers in Forsyth County became pregnant, based on information provided by Jane Kimbrell of Planned Parenthood. These rates are much higher than the national rate of 52 teen pregnancies per 1,000 teen-agers. In 1979, a nine-year-old became pregnant in North Carolina.

Teen pregnancy is a national problem, but it is even more of an issue for black Americans, since the black teen pregnancy rate far exceeds that of white teen-agers. As black parents, we must be aware of these alarming statistics and become more involved in the sexual education of our teen-agers so that these pregnancy numbers will continue to decline.

This sex education should be targeted at young teen-age girls, but should also reach black male teen-agers who must understand the responsibility associated with sexual activity and teen parenthood.

The next article in this three-part series will focus on the physical problems associated with teen pregnancy.
