Strike up the band, pop the champagne corks, roll out the red and white carpet, because it's going to be a rip-roaring Ram-party as Winston-Salem State University winds up homecoming festivities.

The theme of this year's homecoming celebration is "Horizons '84." One of its highlights will be a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday night in the Kenneth R. Williams Auditorium featuring Evelyn "Champagne" King.

On Friday, which is dubbed "Red and White Day," the activities will start with the Founder's Day program. Dr. Kenneth R. Williams, chancellor emeritus, will be the keynote speaker for the convocation, during which seven former WSSU faculty and staff members will be honored as professors emeritus. They include: Florence Butler, Mrs. Gloria Goore, Mrs. Wilma Lassiter, Charles Parker, Carrie Robinson, Andrew Terrell and Mrs. Bessie White.

Joseph O. Lowery, a member of the Class of 1938, will receive the Simon Green Atkins Award as a Distinguished Alumnus for 1984-85.

The program will also include the presentation of the latest work in the university's Sculpture Garden, "Garden Ruins," by Beverly Buchanan.

Other activities include the Red and White Day Mini-Parade. Sponsored by the Day Student Association, the parade will consist of students who will dress in red and white costumes and march to the Whitaker Gym for a pep rally.

Also, the new Miss Alumni, Dr. Lerla Joseph, M.D., will be crowned Friday at the Benton Convention Center. Dr. Joseph is a graduate of the class of 1974 and is a resident of Richmond, Va.

Activities will start early Saturday morning with a Pre-Dawn Party sponsored by Delta Sigma Theta Sorority at the 40 Grand Club at 28th Street and Indiana Avenue.

After the party, if you're still awake, you can attend the homecoming parade that will begin in front of the old Sears building, located at Fourth and Broad streets. The parade will proceed down Fourth Street, ending at Linden Street.

The best viewing areas are Fourth and Broad or Spruce and Marshall streets.

But don't go to sleep yet!

There will be another block party in front of the Alumni

Building on Price Street. At the same time, there will be a Greek Step Show, which will be followed by a barbecue dinner in the Student Union.

The day's festivities will be topped off with Coach Bill Hayes' Winston Salem State University Rams against Fayetteville State University's Broncos, led by star running back Ben Knox. Coming off a trouncing of the Livingstone Bears, 45-13 last week, the Rams will be hoping to up their record to 5-1.

This will be the first time the homecoming game will be held at night. Usually, the game is held immediately after the parade. But officials scheduled the night game in an effort to allow fans enough time to enjoy other festivities scheduled between the parade and kickoff time.
