collaboration. "Shame" was her first million dollar seller off the album. RCA released the single in 1977, and it soared to the top of the musical charts. It became a gold record in one week.

After her initial success, she started touring with the O'Jays, and appearing on numerous T.V. shows like Mike Douglas, the Dick Clark Show, and Don Kirshner's Rock Concert.

In 1979, she was selected to sing at the White House during President Carter's Tribute to Black Music.

Since her initial success, King has produced seven albums for RCA including "Get Loose," "I'm in Love," and "Music Box."

King has credited her father, Erick, for her success and inspiration. She recalled how her family would get together for the

"The King Family Amateur Hour." Each member of the family would sing or dance.

King said she doesn't plan to retire from the music business, not unless her voice becomes too weak.

One of her goals is to become an actress. She hopes to get some experience through making videos.

"I enjoy what I'm doing, and I get my energy from the crowd," she said.

Everything is going well on the New York set of Bill Cosby's NBC series, except, "I just have to get used to working again," admits the Cos. He's referring to the grind of series work, which is resulting in 13-hour days. And he says construction of plots for the show about an obstetrician, his attorney-wife and their four children is proving to be particularly tricky.

"If this were 1964, my wife could do the cooking and I could be the guy on the sofa who just says, 'Let your mother handle this.' But today a lot of things have changed -- and I want the show to reflect those changes: a family where the father cooks, too, and pitches in with the kids, and where everyone has responsibilities." He appreciates that some traditionalists might find Cosby's kind of modern family hard to relate to, but comments, "We're talking about a program that, hopefully, will be going into millions and millions of homes. And I feel a great responsibility to make it as good -- and as real -- as I can."

And as humorous, of course. He talks about a scene they've just shot in which the parents decide to have a romantic evening at a hotel, and as she makes the comment over a candlelit dinner, "This is the first time I've tasted warm food in years," finds herself cutting his food into childsize bites. "They want a night just for themselves -- and spend their time thinking of the kids." Which, of course, isn't unique to modern-day parenting....

ured on the cover wearing a gorilla coat she designed for herself? Is it because she frequently carries a walking stick she calls "my snake"? Is it because Vanity portrays herself in one of the album's songs as a vampire? No, it's because. The Time leader Morris Day once watched Vanity rehearse and concluded that her onstage energy was enough to give faint-hearted viewers a coronary. "Girl," said Day, shaking his head, "you're a wild animal."

FACTS OF LAW

By Gregory Davis

The U.S. Supreme Court says drivers may refuse to have their drivers licenses include a photograph, even where a state law would require it, if it is contrary to a bona fide religious belief.

When a homicide is committed in the heat of passion--such as in extreme anger or rage--the criminal charge is normally reduced from murder to manslaughter.

A license to peddle is granted only to the peddler and is not transferable to someone else.

A Federal Appeals Court has ruled that funds in joint bank accounts cannot be seized by the Internal Revenue Service to pay tax owed by one of the account-holders, until the other accountholder is allowed to show what portion of the account he or she owns.

"Life represents the efforts of men to organize society; government, the efforts of selfishness to overthrow liberty."
