Tineta Jinetta Brown

Tineta Brown

receives honor

Miss Tineta Jinetta Brown, age six, was selected as a contestant in the 1984 N.C. National Little Miss Pageant.

Tineta is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Willie Brown and the granddaughter of Mrs. Willie L. Flippen.

The pageant was held at the Hyatt House Hotel on Saturday, Aug. 18. This was the official state preliminary to the National Little Miss Pageant, in which contestants were girls age four to seven who were judged on poise, personality, interview and appearance.

Tineta won several gifts and prizes, including a 26-inch bicycle, a National Little Miss tote bag, a watch, pencil case and bank. Other prizes were a U.S. savings bond, a radio and a Polaroid 600 camera. She also received two tiaras and trophies denoting her selection as a finalist in the pageant and her selection as "Miss Hospitality."

She will go on to be special guest in next year's pageant, which will be Aug. 10, 1985, at the Sheraton in Greensboro.

Tineta's sponsors were Johnson's Controls-Globe Union; her aunts, Misses Betty and Estella Brown; Mr. & Mrs. Eli Anderson; Mr. & Mrs. Dwight Gurley and Parrie's Beauty Salon.

musical innovation with writer Lena Sherrod.

• Where there's a Will -- The Private War of Eldson McGhee. Myra MacPherson tells about Vietnam Vet Eldson McGhee of Atlanta and his battle against self-destruction after returning home.

• Hollywood's New Black Men. The critically acclaimed movie "A Soldier's Story" showcases, for the first time, a cast of "real" black men. Jack Slater combines a historical background on the portrayal of black men in film in the past with interviews with some of the featured actors in this new hit drama.

• Lifestyle: Rashid at Home. Essence takes a peek inside the retreat of top male model and New York school teacher, Rashid.
