Ram Report

LB Wallace making his mark

By DAVID BULLA
Chronicle Sports Editor

Linebacker Mark Wallace played perhaps the best game of his outstanding college career last Saturday night at Bowman Gray Stadium.

If he had not, Winston-Salem State's football team might have faced an embarrassing loss to a struggling Division I-AA school in Howard.

"I don't like them like that," Wallace said of the ninth-ranked Rams' 12-7 win over the Bison.

The Rams played well in some areas. For example, they totaled 358 yards. Fullback Leroy Wonsley led the way with 102 yards on 21 carries.

But most of that yardage was futile. Indeed, WSSU had an 18-play, third-quarter drive that consumed nine minutes and 20 seconds, yet resulted in no points.

"We did every conceivable thing wrong in the kicking game," said Coach Bill Hayes, whose team travels to Fayetteville State Saturday. "Very little went our way. That's the first time since he (Tyron Smith) has been here that we couldn't make an ex-

"Marky Wallace is one of the best athletes around," Hayes said. "I think he should make all-American this year. He's been playing the way he did tonight for the last two years."

Wallace, a preseason all-CIAA pick, had six solo hits, four assists and an interception in the win over the Bison. That earned him Defensive Back of the Week honors in the CIAA. He and fellow inside linebacker Angelo Spruill spearheaded a WSSU defense that limited Howard to 108 yards rushing and 42 yards passing. Spruill had nine solos and seven assists.

Wallace's interception set up the Rams' first touchdown. He appeared to have returned it for his second touchdown of the season, but he stepped out of bounds on the HU 19-yard line. After three Wonsley runs, Dana Walker went the last six yards on an option right.

Wallace and Spruill are the latest in a long line of outstanding linebackers during Hayes' tenure. Please see page B15

We also snapped a punt over the punter's head (it was recovered for HU's only TD), fumbled away a punt and covered a kick poorly. But we hung in there because we played some real good defense." Wallace may not like games to go like the Howard one, but Hayes prefers his players to be as
