

4-H'ers look to the future at program

"Grow with Us, We Are the Future" was the theme for the Forsyth County 1986 4-H Achievement Night held Tuesday, Dec. 2, at the Forsyth Agricultural Building.

Chris Haines, president of the County Council, presided over the evening's festivities. The program recognized national, regional, state, district and county winners in 4-H activities during the past year.

Marinda Westmoreland provided piano entertainment; Melinda Shrewsbury led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Regina Linville led the 4-H pledge.

Paul Stinson conducted the devotions and Helen Prince, 4-H agent, presented charters to 11 4-H clubs chartered during the past year.

They included Belview Partners-In-Learning, Sharon Isaiah, leader; Jackson Avenue Partners-In-Learning, Betty Hauser, leader; Piedmont Park Partners-In-Learning, Cynthia Jeter, leader; Salvation Army Girls' Club, Tammy McDaniel, leader; Dynamic Teens of Walkertown, Barbara Howard, leader; Rural Hall Hoofbeats, Ginny Martin, Judy Wall, Julie Serber and Gwen Lynch, leaders; Stanleyville, Barbara Davis, leader; Mineral Springs, Nancy Cave, leader; Great Gallopers, Catherine Stanley and Beth Boyles, leaders; Open Arms, Jennifer Bland and Beverly Whan, leaders, and Clemmons Rockers, Mary Sue Kendrick and Sue Gray, leaders.

Gayle Haines, vice president of the Volunteer Leaders Association, presented certificates to 4-H'ers who provided leadership for the summer eye care safety and bicycle safety programs as well as to those who were junior leaders at 4-H camp.

Eddie Leagans, 4-H agent, recognized national, regional and state winners.

Jeff Haines, assistant secretary of the volunteer leaders association, presented certificates to 4-H'ers who completed
