

A. Philip Randolph Institute to honor Hauser

Dr. Charlie Brady (C.B.) Hauser will be honored by the Winston-Salem chapter of the North Carolina A. Philip Randolph Institute Saturday during its eighth annual banquet. The banquet will be held on Saturday, March 26, 1988 at 7:00 p.m. at the Winston Lake Family YMCA.

The awards banquet is held to pay "special tribute" to an outstanding citizen who has contributed to the success of the Winston-Salem community. Dr. Elizabeth Koontz of Salisbury will deliver the keynote speech.

Dr. Hauser has had an extensive political career. He served from 1984 to 1986 as the representative for the 67th District in the N. C. House of Representatives. He represented the 39th District in the N. C. House of Representatives from 1983-84. He has served as a judge, registrar, and as a chairman and member of the Paisley Democratic Precinct Committee.

He has also served on the county and state democratic executive committees and has been a delegate to county, district and state conventions. He managed the county-wide campaign of the first Afro-American to be elected to a county-wide office in Forsyth

Hauser

County.

Dr. Hauser was born in Yadkinville, N.C. He is the third of 13 children born to the late Daniel and Callie V. Hauser. He attended public schools in Yadkinville and Lexington, N.C. and was graduated from Winston-Salem State University in 1940 with a B.S. degree. He did his graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania, receiving his M.S. degree in 1947 and an Ed. D. in 1956. He engaged in further studies at the Catholic University of America and Texas Southern University.

He taught in the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County public schools from 1940 to 1942 and was an instructor at West Virginia State College from 1947 to 1950.

Dr. Hauser was a professor at Winston-Salem State University from 1956 to 1977.

He is a veteran of the U.S. Army and a recipient of a good conduct medal.

He holds life memberships in the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, National Education Association, the NAACP, and the National Retired Teachers Association.

Dr. Hauser is a member of several boards, advisory committees and organizations including, but not limited to, Phi Delta Kappa, Winston Lake Family YMCA, Urban Arts Advisory Committee, Senior Democrats and the Trustee Board of Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

The recipient of numerous honors, he has been elected to the WSSU and the CIAA Sports Hall of Fame. He was named Omega Man of the Year in 1966 and 1984 and was awarded the YMCA H. E. Staplefoote Award. He has also been honored by the NAACP, the Mental Health Association, the N.C. Alliance for the Mentally Ill, Experiment in Self Reliance, the Red Cross, the Urban League and a host of other organizations.

He has the unusual hobby of beekeeping along with boating, camping, fishing, gardening and photography.

He is married to the former Lois E. Brown. They have two daughters: Lois P. Hauser Golding of Bristol, England and actress Fay E. Hauser of Los Angeles. Dr. Hauser's daughters and other family members are expected to attend the banquet.

Open Government

Bert Grisard
County
Commissioner
DEMOCRAT

For The People

"I NEEDED A JOB ... SO I DID SOMETHING ABOUT IT."

Priscilla Penn

"I enrolled in the DATA PROCESSING program at Rutledge ..."

"Now I'm learning a living!"

SPECIALIZED TRAINING FOR TODAY'S JOBS

- Day and Evening Classes
- Financial Aid available for those who qualify
- Small Classes
- Job Placement

CLASSES BEGIN APRIL 11

CALL 725-8701

RUTLEDGE COLLEGE

820 W. Fourth St.

ACCREDITED MEMBER AICS

Foot Patrol

From Page A1

patrol is that the officers would be given that area to patrol during his entire shift."

"We've gotten nothing but positive feedback from the downtown business people and everyone else who goes downtown frequently," said Alderman Larry Womble, vice-chair of the committee. "They feel a lot more secure knowing the police aren't very far if they need them and after the budget is worked out we can hopefully get started this summer."

"Having police officers nearby definitely discourages criminal activity," Burke said. "They're also less likely to hang around places when they know a policeman is going to come through."

Sweat said that neighborhood foot patrols would help the department perceive an area as the residents do and handle situations accordingly.

"All we've got to go by is the data we get on certain areas," he said. "Our statistics may say that drug trafficking is the problem, but the people may say that it's violence. It would help us tremendously if we could perceive an area as the residents do."

Sweat also said that it would be a good way to break down the communications barrier which exists between the public and the police.

"It would definitely build good rapport between officers and the general public," he said. "I think that's one of the best benefits that would stem from it."

Sweat also said that the most obvious problem is how to administer the new patrol so that it would be effective.

"Response time is going to be a problem," he said. "We could have an officer park his car and start walking his area. Suddenly he could get a call which would require him to get back to his car and lose critical time. This is something that is going to have to be studied and looked at very closely. It may also cost, but I'm for anything that will help us do our jobs and enhance our relationship with the people."

Burke said, if the new unit could fit into the budget, they would likely start in areas known for criminal activity.

"If everything goes well, we'd like to start in areas we receive the most reports," Burke said. "Maybe we'd start around the Cleveland Avenue, 17th and 18th Street areas."

Residents of that area seem to agree that foot patrols would help lessen some of the recurring violence and drug activity.

"I think it would be good," said 86-year-old Sam Spann of 1548 Cleveland Ave. "I've been living here for over 30 years and it's always been rough. I'd feel a lot better if they would walk through here."

"The neighborhood would definitely be safer," said 26-year-old Daisey Alexander of 1530 Cleveland Ave. "I've only been here for three months and I'm seriously considering moving because it is really bad."

Some of the residents said they would like to have the new unit established in their neighborhood for the sake of their children.

"Having the police around would help get rid of some of the dealers around here," said Brenda Acker, 35, of 1514 18th St. "My kids are out a lot and if the police could get rid of the dealers, they wouldn't have any influence over them."

"A lot of kids are exposed to drugs around here," said Anne Brown of 1524 18th St. "Something needs to be done about it and I think maybe some Afro-American patrolmen around here might be just what we need."

Sweat said that although having Afro-American officers patrol predominantly Afro-American areas would avoid tension, he would have to use his men in different areas from time to time.

"The city is divided into four sections and we like our officers to be exposed to all of them," Sweat said. "Although it might be better if the officers patrolled these areas, we'd have to deploy our Afro-American officers throughout the city and not just in certain areas."

communities, parents and the private sector and give it to federal bureaucrats and judges."

Congress

From Page A1

religious liberty and expand federal control over the private sector.

"It's a blank check to the bureaucrats and the litigators," said Rep. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis.

The White House pledged to enforce the new law enacted over Reagan's objections.

"We presented an alternative civil rights act which stated the president's strong views against discrimination in this country," a White House statement said. "The Congress chose to override the president's veto. We will work to implement the new law."

But House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said in a statement that Reagan's veto was "wholly unnecessary and it provoked an unnecessary confrontation. The new law will not end illegal discrimination. But it does represent a step forward in making America truly a land of equal opportunity for all."

Supporters in the House erupted into cheers and applause when the two-thirds mark was reached. In the Senate, the mood was more subdued.

Opponents contended the bill had little to do with civil rights and had much to do with what Reagan on

B E N N I E

M
C
B
R
I
D
E

Bennie McBride

ASSISTANT MANAGER,
NEW CAR
DEPARTMENT

722-4191

ASK FOR BENNIE

- Will match you to just the right new or used car or truck at the right price
- Will make sure your new car or truck fits your budget
- Will help you finance your car or truck at just the right monthly payments.
- Will be available when you or your car or truck need attention

MODERN CHEVROLET

4th & Broad Winston-Salem

Make Sure This Gets Attached To A House Before You Do

When you see a Max™ emblem, you know immediately that a house is an excellent investment. Because it's been inspected by Duke Power and approved as a Maximum Value Home.

That means it gives you the biggest discounts possible on your power bill. It has optimum insulation throughout. It uses The Comfort Machine™, a High Efficiency Heat Pump. It comes with safe efficient electric water heating. And it gives you the option of joining Duke Power's Easy Saver Plan.

With all these advantages, it's easy to see why we say The Max is where the next generation will live. So when you see our emblem, go ahead and get attached to the house. Because it's a place where you can live happily ever after.

Trademark of Duke Power Company DUKE POWER