

Jacob to highlight Urban League conference

The Winston-Salem Urban League will host the National Urban League Southern Regional Assembly April 21 to 23 at Stouffer's Winston Plaza Hotel.

"Our conference will bring to the city a host of prominent National Urban League leaders as well as affiliate staff and volunteers from states throughout the south," said Hazel E. Brown, the acting administrator of the local league.

John E. Jacob, president and chief executive officer of National Urban League, will be a featured speaker at the conference and will make an address at the conference's opening session.

Numerous workshops and forums will be offered relating to the conference theme, "Family and Community: Focus on Yesterday's Achievement, Today's Progress and Tomorrow's Plans."

Jacob

The primary purpose of the Regional Assembly is to formulate input for the National Urban League Conference on current issues of the Southern Region and those which must be addressed in the Urban League Movement.

At 7 p.m. April 21, Jacob will deliver the opening address, officially convening the regional assembly in the Forsyth Room of the Winston Plaza Hotel.

Since 1982, Jacob has served as president and chief executive officer of the National Urban League.

He directs a network of 113 affiliates across the nation. The organization includes a national headquarters in New York City, a Washington operations department, a research bureau and four regional service centers.

The organization is charged with improving the quality of life of citizens through special programs and services. It also focuses on calling attention to the reality of social ills and injustice suffered by the poor.

Jacob also is author of a weekly syndicated newspaper column, "To Be Equal," which appears in more than 600 publications across the country.

Jacob has delivered major addresses before several of America's most prestigious forums.

The public is invited to attend the Guild Volunteer Luncheon and the Volunteer Service Awards Dinner Friday, April 22.

Ticket information is available by calling the Winston-Salem Urban League offices at 725-5614.

Reservations are required and seating is limited.

John Teta wins first annual Bruce Shelton Scholarship

John "Keoni" Teta, a senior at North Forsyth High School, has been selected as the winner of the first annual Bruce Shelton Scholarship. He competed with students from the other seven Winston-Salem/Forsyth County High Schools for the $4,000 award.

The son of Mrs. and Mrs. James Teta of 5200 Bear Creek road, Teta is academically ranked in the top 10 percent of his class, is president of the North Forsyth student body, lettered in football, track and wrestling, and was captain of the North Forsyth wrestling team. He plans to attend North Carolina State University in the fall, majoring in aerospace engineering.

The scholarship is named for the late Bruce Shelton, an outstanding student athlete who graduated from Parkland High School in 1969. Shelton died in January 1987, at age 35, of a heart attack. The scholarship, which is administered by The Winston-Salem Foundation, was established by his friends, classmates and business associates to annually recognize the top student athlete in the Winston-Salem/Forsyth County School System.

Dennis Shields, who graduated from Parkland High School with Shelton, and who now serves as director of the scholarship program, made the announcement, saying, "We are very pleased that John Teta of North Forsyth High School has been selected as the winner of the first annual Bruce Shelton Scholarship. His academic record, his accomplishments in athletics and his strong leadership skills speak for the themselves. The fact that he's such a personable young man who is respected and well liked by his classmates, coaches and teachers, makes us even more certain that John represents everything we are looking for in a Shelton Scholarship winner."

In being named as the winner of the first annual Shelton Scholarship, Teta adds that honor to others that have recently come his way. He was named "Most Outstanding Winston-Salem Teenager" by the W-S Jaycees, and was nominated for an appointment to West Point by Rep. Steve Neal.

Other finalists for the Shelton Scholarship were Kim Bennett, Carver; Julie Shouse, East Forsyth; Ashley McKaughan, Glenn; Robbie Cox, Mount Tabor; Stan Green, Parkland; Glen Mays, Reynolds; and Riley Muse, West Forsyth.

Belview Community Club members get 'dolled up' for recent competition

The Belview Community Club held its April meeting at the home of Ethel Ford.

Devotional service was opened with a song led by Mabel Walker followed with prayer by Dorothy Williams and scripture read by Clara Caldwell. Myrtle Wall, secretary, read the minutes, which were approved. Ethel Ford, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Ruby Charles. After the business session, the club held its annual "doll contest."

Mrs. Caldwell and Hilton Scott were the judges. Winners were as follows: prettiest doll, Mrs. Dorothy Williams; largest and ugliest doll, Myrtle Wall; smallest doll, Mable Walker; and most unusual, Ethel Ford.

Williams

Spring bouquets were presented to each winner. Other members attending the meeting included Ella M. Williams and Mrs. Hilton Scott.

The meeting was opened and closed with inspirational prayer and song and a delicious repast by the hostess. Other members of the club include Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brevard, Mr. and Mrs. Benny Blackshear, Mr. and Mrs. Beechie Charles, Mrs. Geneva Charles, Mrs. Claudette Lindsay, Gaddy Thompson, Leroy Wall, Mary Randolph, Prince Walker, Eunice Leak, Leslie Luther and Mrs. Cladwell.

United Way begins search for Joel A. Weston Jr. Memorial Award entries

The United Way of Forsyth County has announced its search for the winning entry in the fourth annual Joel A. Weston Jr. Memorial Award for Excellence in Non-Profit Agency Management.

A grant of $5,000 will be given to this year's winner.

The award was established as an annual competition to honor the memory of Joel A. Weston Jr., a local community leader and former United Way board chairman.

Competition will be based on four basic criteria: agency financial management, personnel practices, service provisions and utilizations of volunteer resources.

Any Forsyth County non-profit organization with a 501 (c) 3 tax status may enter the award competition.

An application form must be completed and returned to the United Way office no later than 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 27. Applications are available from Florence Corpening, First Union Building.

The awards committee will be accepting nominations from agency board members, concerned citizens and agency staff members.

The Weston Award will be announced at a reception June 9.

For more information call Florence Corpening at 723-3601.
