MILITARY NOTES

Lowery completes Navy recruit training

Navy Scaman Recruit Michelle D. Lowery, daughter of Humphrey L. and Katharine S. Parks of Winston-Salem, has com-pleted recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla. During Lowery's eight-week training cycle, she studied general military subjects designed to pre-pare her for further academic and on-the-job training. Lowery's studies included sca-manship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene. She is a 1986 graduate of Robert B. Glenn High School.

Navy Seaman Recruit Jean-gella D. Little, daughter of John Little, has completed recruit train-ing at Recruit Training Center,

Michelle Lowery

Orlando Fla During Little's eight-week aining cycle, she studied general ilitary subjects designed to pre-tre her for further academic and

Jeangella L on-the-job training

Little's studies included sea-ship, close order drill, Naval ory and first aid. Personnel Little compete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene. A 1986 graduate of Parkland High School, she joined the Navy in December 1987.

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Reginald L. Noble, son of Doris N. Crosby recently departed for a six month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea aboard the air-craft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisen-hower, homeported in Norfolk, Va.

The ship is relieving the USS Coral Sea. This cruise is the first major deployment for the USS Eisenhower since returning to the Atlantic Fleet following an 18month overhaul.

A 1979 graduate of North Forsyth Senior High School, he joined the Navy in December

Registration inquiries may be

Regional Morehouse College alumni schedule conference open to the public. Conference participants will include Dr. Leroy Keith Jr., recent-ly inaugurated president of More-house College; Chartie J. More-land, national alumni president; Hardy Franklin, alumni affairs director; Sam Young Jr., region III vice president; and chapter presi-dents throughout the region.

The Morchouse College Alumni Association's first annual Region III Conference will be held April 15 to 16 at the Marriou City Center in Charlotte.

Alumni, their spouses, friends and prospective students from North Carolina, South Carolina and other states within the region are expected to attend the event. Macco K. Sloan, president of North Carolina Mutual Capital Management Corp., will speak at a Saturday noon luncheon which is directed to Sam Young Jr., P.O. Box 35505, Charlotte 28235, (704) 537-7316 or 537-6096. Blacks urged to join in Minority Cancer Awareness Week

The National Cancer Institute encourage services to celebrate "Minority Cancer Awareness Week," April 17-23. "This is an especially good time to promote cancer prevention in the Afro-American community, Decurse Afro-American community,

In the Afro-American community, because Afro-Americans get can-cer and die from it more often than other groups in this country. Many Afro-Americans think there is nothing that can be done to prevent cancer.

But the truth is, cancer may be the most preventable of all chronic diseases. Most cancers cao be cured if found early and treated right away. That is the reason the National Cancer Institute son the National Cancer Institute wants everyone to learn the warn-ing signs of cancer and to see a doctor regularly. A doctor can find early signs of cancer before the patient notices them. It is estimated that 80 percent of all cancers can be prevented if

It is estimated that 80 percent of all cancers can be prevented if people make certain changes in the way they live. One of the most important ways to prevent cancer is to quit smoking. Smoking has been linked to cancers of the lung, larynx, throat, bladder, ktdney, and pancreas. Chewing tobacco and using snuff also can lead to some types of cancers.

cancers

The risks of cancer are even greater if a person smokes and drinks alcohol, or works with dan-gerous materials. In addition, pregnant women who smoke have a greater chance of losing their being are delivering the lib babies or delivering unhealthy babies

Eating healthy can also help prevent cancer. Fatty foods such as cold cuts, salt pork, and sausage may add to the risk of cancers of the colon, breast, prostate, and uterus

Eat more foods low in fat such as lean meats, fish, poultry (without the skin), rice, spaghetti, skim milk, and fruits and vegeta-bles. Broil or bake fish and pouletables also may reduce the risk of cancer

For more information and free booklets on cancer prevention and early detection, call the Can-cer Information Service, toll free, at 1-800-4-CANCER (1-800-422

AREA WEDDINGS

Smith-Burton

Patricia Powell Smith and Pierre Montgomery Burton were married Saturday, April 9, in a 4 p.m. ccremony at Grace Presbyteian Church The Rev. L.V. Lassiter officiat çil.

ed. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Shouse of Winston-Salem. The groom is the son of Jessie Mrae Burton and the grandson of Christine "Mama Chris" Burton. The bride was given in mar-rage by her father. Serving as maid of honor was Keia S. Smith of Winston-Salem. Bridesmaids were Constance Keia S. Smith of Winston-Salem. Bridesmaids were Constance L. Powell, LaTonya Powell, both of Greensboro, April D. Robinson of Mount Airy and Intisar Bilal of Barnegat, NJ. Best man was Preston Burton of Winston-Salem. Ushers were Thomas Burton, Kenneth Burton, Relvin Burton, Reginald Burton, Robert Hardin and Paul Sheff, all of Winston-Salem. The bride is a graduate of

The bride is a graduate of Mayfest culinary contest seeks entries

For the sixth consecutive year, Stroh's Brewery and Urban Arts of the Arts Council will sponsor a culu-nary competition as part of their annual Mayfest International Festival.

Mayfest will take place on Sat-urday and Sunday May 21 and 22 in the streets of downtown Winston-Salem and is a celebration of the cultural diversity of Forsyth County It will feature food, entertainment and exhibits from many parts of the world

The International Culinary Competition will take place on Sat-atday morning, May 21 at 11:30 in the artium of Mercantile Plaza, 411 Who is not a professional cook. One permore entries may be submitted by the same person and can be an

The groom is a graduate of West Forsyth High School. He attended Forsyth Technical Insti-tute and is employed by R.J. Reynolds Tobacco.

The couple will live in Win-original or published recipe. Cate-gories are Main Dish, Dessert, Cake and Bread, and can represent any geographical region. Winners will be chosen in each category and prizes will be awarded as follows: First Prize: 6 rib-eye steaks 3 gift certificates for dioner for 2, a cooking class at The Stocked Pot and a cash award of $75. Second Prize: Two gift certifi-cates for dinner for two and a cash prize of $50. Third Prize: One gift certificate for a dinner for two and a criticate for a dinner for two and a cash price of $25. Honorable Men-tion: One gift certificate for a dinner for two. There will also be a special award for Best Presentation with a cash award of $50.00, Entry blanks are available at Urban Are of the are available at Urban Arts of the Arts Council. Deadline for all es is May 1.

Atkins High School. She attended Rulledge College and Forsyth Technical College. She is employed by R.J. Reynolds Tobac-co International.

try. Try steaming vegetables rather than frying. Eating more whole grain breads and cereals, peas, beans, and lots of fruits and veg-

During Minority Cancer Awareness Week, communities across the country are sponsoring health fairs, educational activities, and cancer screenings for Afro-Americans

cer Info