East Winston Task Force to hire consultant

By ANGELA WRIGHT

The newly-created East Winston Development Task Force took a tour of East Winston Monday and got underway with plans to hire an independent consultant to conduct a market analysis study.

The group, which was appointed by Mayor Wayne Corpening and the Board of Aldermen to facilitate and coordinate the implementation of the East Winston Area Development Plan, met for the second time Monday. The tour had been planned as part of the meeting to familiarize all members of the task force with specific targeted areas within East Winston.

The tour took in the old business district along Liberty Street as far as Smith Reynolds Airport. The area, which still contains a number of minority-owned businesses that service the Afro-American community, is one area the task force wants to see revitalized.

Residential areas were also part of the tour. The group rode through the Piedmont Circle area and noted the poor conditions of some of the homes and the boarded up houses on 25th Street -- conditions some said could be relieved with more owner-occupied homes.

Members of the task force are: Nell Britton, Clark Brown, Geneva Brown, Rev. J. Ray Butler, William B. Cash, James R. Grace, Dr. J. Raymond Oliver, Joycelyn Johnson, Charles G. Reavis Jr., Norma Smith, Evelyn Terry and Ernest Pitt, chairman.

After completing the tour, which included areas along 14th Street, Dellabrook Road, 11th and Jackson Avenue and the old Skyland School area, the group gathered at Benton Convention Center for a luncheon meeting.

Joining the group for the meeting were Alderman Virginia Newell, who also went on the tour, and Alderman Vivian Burke. The Afro-American aldermen were named by the mayor as ex officio members of the task force. Allen Joines, city development director and staff assistant to the task force, was also in attendance.

The task force focused its attention during the luncheon on the process for selecting a consultant and setting a timetable for accomplishing the study.

The group plans to have a consultant conduct an economic and demographic analysis of the East Winston area. The analysis would be used to prepare detailed market strategies and physical development plans.

Joines suggested that the consultant be required to project the structure of the East Winston economy to the year 2005, including detailed projections on the amount of office space, retail space, industrial development and housing able to be supported by the economy of the East Winston community.

Several economic plans and studies are already in existence for the city overall. The consultant is expected to review these studies and analyze their relation to the development potential of East Winston.

The task force plans to have the study underway by the beginning of October, pending the acquisition of an appropriate funding source. The entire committee will be involved in all phases of the selection process for the consultant.

The East Winston community will also be invited to offer their views on what is most needed in the area.

Proposed budget seeks funds to help racially troubled Robeson County

RALEIGH (AP) -- Racially troubled Robeson County would receive funds for a public defender's office, a Superior Court judgeship and an outdoor drama championed by the late Julian Pierce under Gov. Jim Martin's proposed budget supplement.

The governor said he would ask the General Assembly for $482,179 in special assistance for the county in southeastern North Carolina long plagued by strife among Indians, blacks and whites.

The proposed expenditure "arises out of the turmoil and the anguish that Robeson County had to face a couple of months ago and over the past year," Martin said at a news conference Thursday.

"The money 'doesn't relieve all of the anguish or the anger but at least it says that somebody's listening to some of their requests,'" Martin said.

The proposal to create a new Superior Court judgeship stems from an agreement struck by Lt. Gov. Bob Jordan, Democratic legislative leaders and Robeson community leaders in the wake of the March murder of judicial candidate Pierce.

Pierce, a Lumbee Indian, was running for Superior Court judge against District Attorney Joe Freeman Britt, a white. After his murder in what authorities called a domestic quarrel, supporters asked for a special General Assembly session to amend state law to let another minority candidate enter the race. Under the compromise reached with legislative leaders, Martin agreed to request funds for a second Superior Court judgeship in the county and to appoint a black or Indian as the judge.
