three players in double figures, led by Bryan Samuels with 28.

Flagg Stanfield, who starred locally at Parkland High School and played at Appalachian State, joined Mountaineer and Celtic teammate Tony Searcy with 27 for the second-game winners.

The Vikings, who swapped the lead several times before losing in the fourth quarter, were paced by a game-high 34 points from Bill Tibbs. Pete Smith added 22 for the 0-1 Vikings.

In the only rout of the day, the Delaney Rudd-led Bears smothered the Burning Flames, 118-86. Rudd, who had 42 last week in an AAU charity game, attacked for 33 in the win Saturday.

Pierre Brown, another Wake Forest alumni, added 20 points. High Point College and East Forsyth star, Brian Leake, finished with 19 while Sam Porter had 11.

The Flames' balanced attack was led by John Edwards' 23 points and helped by 16 from Brian Carter. John Stickman finished with 15 for the 0-1 Flames and Wayne Crowell had 10.

In the final contest, the Flyers used 29 points from Mike "Pop Bottle" Thomas to fend off the Dominos squad, 115-110.

The Flyers had four other players in double figures, led by Charles Douthit and Robert Glenn's 14. Tim Williamson finished with 12 while Rip Wilkins Jr. had 10.

A game-high 34 points from Roger Mason led the losing cause for the Dominos bunch. Tim McFadden, who contributed 20, led four others in double figures. Sam Wallace finished with 19 while Milton Vaughn and Charles Haney had 11 each.

The Big Apple League runs each Saturday for the next several weeks, with games beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hanes Hosiery Recreation Center.

Funderburk stressed that admission is free.

"There is some pretty good basketball being played out here," he said.

"Most of these guys have a lot of organized ball under their belts. This is a great league."

Though he has been trying, Funderburk has yet to obtain full sanctioning from the NCAA.

"That would let us really take off," said Funderburk, who has been seeking the NCAA's blessing for the last two years.

"That would let us get guys in here with remaining college eligibility."
