

Marshall's shooting paces Golden Bulls

By Chronicle Staff

Kendrick Marshall plays for the Golden Bulls in the Winston Lake YMCA's 12-14 division. Marshall, the chief offensive threat for his team, has what is called a shooter's conscience. He has no fear of missing, even when a game is on the line and his shot will either win or lose the contest. Marshall led the Golden Bulls to two victories last week as his team downed the Aggies and the Spartans.

The Rams also duplicated the two wins in a week feat by tripping up the Spartans, then downing the Aggies two days later.

In the 9-11 division, the Deacons put a blanket on the Wolfpack in a one-sided win and the Hoyas took measure of the Tar Heels in overtime in a game that produced its share of controversy.

In the 6-8 division, the Lakers bested the Hornets and the Bulls were extremely unkind to the Knicks.

Marshall sizzles as shooter

Kendrick Marshall showed that he has supreme confidence in his shot no matter what the circumstances are on the floor. In the Golden Bulls 39-38 win over the Spartans, Marshall hit a 17-footer as the buzzer sounded to give his team the win.

For that game, Marshall led his team with 16 points.

margin. Marshall finished with 21 points, and the Aggies Shawn Robinson scored nine points for the losers.

Rams sweep

Danny Rosa and C. Perry combined to score 30 points as the Rams prevailed over the Spartans 59-35. Rosa tallied 17 and Perry added 13.

For the Spartans, Sullivan led the offense with 13 points while Chris Samuels added 11. One note on this game -- the Spartans Cheneika Williams, the only girl who plays in this league, drew loud rounds of applause after she scored her first basket in league play this season.

The Rams secured their second win of the week by outlasting the Aggies 53-31. George Redd topped the scoring list for the winners with 19 points and Jeff Capels followed up with 15 of his own.

Aggies point producer with nine in a losing effort.

Deacons play tough

The Deacons put on a defensive display that the Wolfpack was never able to deal with in coming away with a 15-6 victory. Cedric Taylor and Jarrian Wallace led the Deacs, scoring six and five points respectively.

Dennis Joyner was the top scorer for the Pack with four points.

Still up in the air

The Hoyas defeated the Tar Heels 30-28 in overtime last weekend. But apparently, there was so much dissenting opinion, that the game has been rescheduled for Feb. 20 at 6 p.m.

6-8 division

Lakers blast Hornets

Eric Jones was once more the main guy to do the scoring as the Lakers bested the Hornets 22-16. Jones scored 19 points and Russell Bonham got on the board with one converted free throw attempt.

The Hornets were led by Charles Whitt and Miker Jowers, who scored five points each.

Bullish Bulls

The Knicks never had a chance as the Bulls struck early and often in route to a 34-6 win. Jonathan Butler was the top Bulls point guy with 15. D.J. Mickle scored one point for the Bulls.

free throws, after hitting seven of eight in the first half. "If we hit those free throws and combine that with our pressure defense, then we may have had the chance to get over the hump near the end of the game," says the Demons coach.

Scoring wise, RJR got 13 points from Julius Williams and Smith scored 10 points. Brad Shearin added seven.

When Mt. Tabor took away Reynolds' inside the game, the Demons were left out in the cold because their perimeter game was nowhere to be found. "We had to keep trying to work the ball inside because our outside game completely faltered," Trzaskoma says. "We didn't hit one outside shot all night."

Coach Martin felt that Mt. Tabor was able to finally pull away from Reynolds because they figured out how to handle their pressure.

"Stephon Kee really made a difference for us," Martin adds. "He handled the pressure and got our people set up to get good shots. I told my guys at the half that in order for us to do something against their press, we had to move the ball quicker and have people in motion quicker than we were doing. Once we were able to get the ball across the half-court line, we were OK."

The Spartans also got some superb inside work from Kip Reese and Peter Milner to compliment Young.

North Davidson tops Spartans
Earlier in the week, North Davidson took a 56-51 decision over Mt. Tabor, primarily because of free throw shooting. The Spartans simply got icy fingers at the foul line that night as they converted just five of 21 free throw attempts. North Davidson, on the other hand, hit 14 of 28 charity shots.

"We were always in the game," says coach Martin. "But we just couldn't hit those free throws. It was a very physical game and what it came down to was who could do the job from the foul line."

Young was the top performer for Mt. Tabor with 17 points and seven rebounds. Reese scored 12 points and Andy Greer added 10.

Point totals have been a barometer for how the Spartans have played this season. Says Martin: We didn't shoot the ball very well that night. If we don't score in the 60s, we usually don't do too well and that's what happened to us against North Davidson."

Davie County wins over RJR

The Demons had another loss last week, this one coming at the hands of Davie County, 69-57.

DC employed a large line-up that was difficult for RJR to contend with. "Their point guard and their size underneath is what swayed the game to their advantage," explains Trzaskoma. "Late in the third period, they ran up a big lead and we never recovered. They used their size on us and all of their points came from the inside. Plus they started hitting a lot of their shots, and when they didn't make those, they got the second shots to score."

Smith, Williams and Brad Shearin led the Demons in scoring. All tallied 10 points each.
