INDERA MILLS

"Quality, Value, Selection & Price"

Robin and Christy

If you are looking for a quaint, "down-home" type of shopping atmosphere, then Indera Mills is the right place for you. An added bonus is the very competitive price on their quality merchandise. Begun in 1914, Indera Mills (the factory) had its humble beginnings with two machines, two stores and seven employees. The company now has nearly 250 employees. Claudia Ragsdale manages the South Marshall Street store. She really appreciates the loyal patronage our community has given to the store for so many years. Her store specializes in lingerie for women, but also carries men's and children's apparel. Come and visit Claudia, Shirley and Lib again. If you haven't been yet, isn't it time to discover Indera Mills for yourself?

LOWE'S

"Including the Kitchen Sink"

TODD BENNETT

If you're looking for virtually anything related to the home, then you'll probably find yourself shopping for it at Lowe's. The new Lowe's opened in April and is considered a model of all future Lowe's stores to come. The store capacity went from 9,000 square feet (at the old South Stratford store) to more than 65,000 square feet at its new store (located on Hanes Mall Boulevard next to the Pavillon Shopping Center). The tremendous size is to accommodate an expanded product line to better service customers. Shoppers like the self-service nature of the store. However, a very capable, friendly staff is ready to assist you if you need any help. In addition, do-it-yourself clinics are offered to instruct in home improvement areas. Come visit the largest Lowe's store in the Triad.
