Christmas party for needy children held by Lodge

The third annual Christmas party for the needy children of Winston-Salem was held at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday, Dec. 12. Assisting in distributing toys, fruit, and candy to the children were members of Olympic Lodge No. 795 and The Queens of Olympic No. 620.

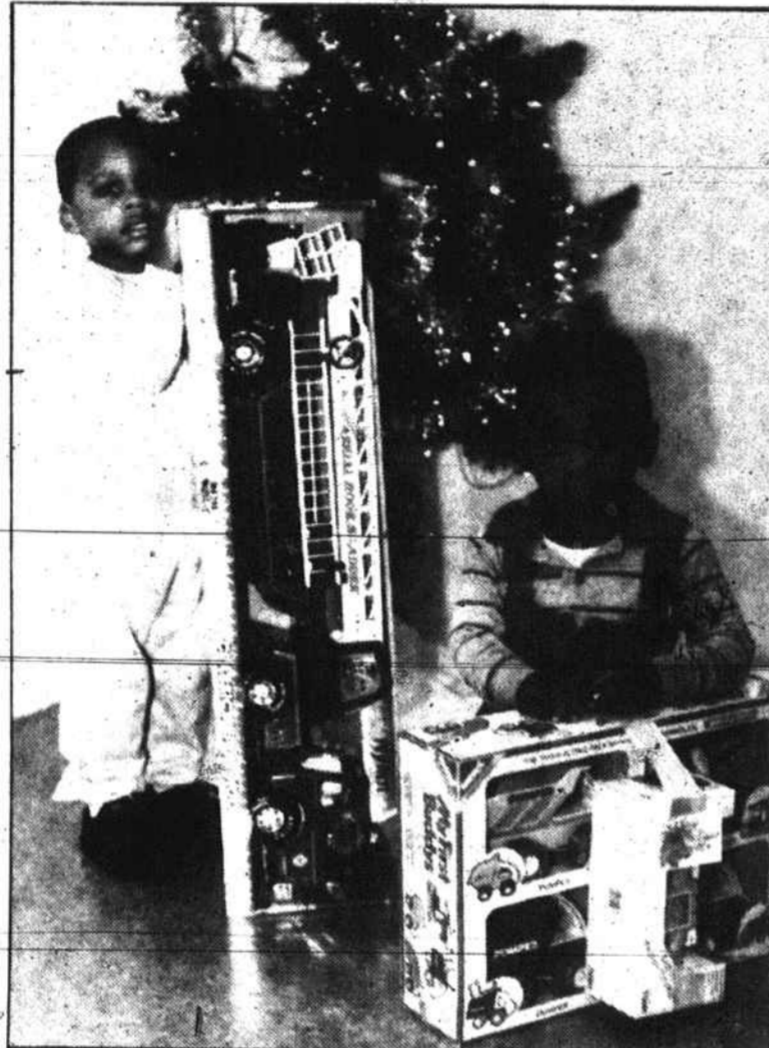

The owner of Three Girls Convenient Store, Willie A. Moore, sponsored the event and plans to continue his participation in the future.

McMoore said that this was his way of giving something back to the community, especially in a capacity where it is very much needed.

McMoore added that he would like to see more African-American businesses and organizations become involved in similar functions which could help more needy children, or the homeless, have a better holiday.

Any such project, he said, is something that African-American people can do for themselves because there are enough businesses and organizations in the Winston-Salem area to support it.

Each year for the past three years, the Olympic Lodge No. 795 and The Queens of Olympic No. 620 has chosen approximately 30 needy children from the Winston-Salem area to participate in this event. They all have found the experience to be very rewarding and would like to extend the challenge to other organizations in Winston-Salem to participate or create their own project.

Spreading Christmas cheer by assisting in the distribution of gifts are members of The Olympic Lodge No. 795 and The Queens of Olympic No. 620.
