Pressing On

A&T to hold homecoming tourney

Greensboro, N.C. - An idea which began 13 years ago as a golf outing for a handful of players, has developed into one of the nation's largest and fastest growing amateur tournaments.

This year's Aggie Coca-Cola Homecoming Golf and Tennis Tournament will be held on Friday, October 25 on the two ultra modern Bryan Park Courses in Greensboro.

The golf competition is expected to attract more than 300 players from 10 states and the District of Columbia.

A companion tennis competition for 70 players will be held on the same day in Greensboro's Oka Hester Park.

The tournament is being sponsored by the A&T State University Board in Control of Intercollegiate Athletics and the proceeds will benefit the North Carolina A&T State University athletic program.

Honorary co-chairpersons for the tournament will be Associate Supreme Court Justice Henry E. Frye of Greensboro, an avid tennis player and weekend golfer, and veteran black golf enthusiast, Charles Stewart of New Brunswick, N.J.

Frye previously served in the North Carolina House of Representatives and the North Carolina Senate.

He is a founder of Greensboro National Bank.

The 71-year-old Stewart, originally from Greensboro, helped his brothers build a golf course here at the age of seven.

Separate golf competition will be held on the Bryan Park Champions Course and the Players Course.

The original Bryan Park Golf Course was designed by the noted golf course architect, Reese Jones, and was constructed by the City of Greensboro in 1974.

The Champions Course is recognized as one of the best public tests of golf in the nation. The courses were recently renovated at a cost of more than $5 million.

An assortment of prizes will be awarded for winners of the golf tournament in seven flights including a senior flight and a women's flight.

Tennis prizes will be awarded in singles and doubles competition.

Two 1991 automobiles and two round-trip airline tickets will be awarded for golf Holes-In-One by black Cadillac Olds and USAir respectively.

Persons interested in registering for the tournament are asked to send the registration fee ($55 for gold and $25 for tennis) to Mrs. Helen Jones, Corbett Sports Center at A&T State University, Greensboro, N.C. 27411.

Pairings will be announced on October 11.

Shaw/EPA begin joint research program

Shaw University and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency have launched a joint Research Apprenticeship Program for minority high school students during this summer.

The specially selected students, all promising young scientists for Wake's Gifted and Talented Science and Mathematics Program will be selected by Wake County school personnel.

The program consists of a science and mathematics "apprenticeship" with emphasis on environmental problems.

Ninth grade students selected receive four years of training with Shaw faculty and EPA scientists which continues throughout the academic year.

Their last two summers will be spent at an EPA facility in the United States. Each year, a new class of ninth graders will enter the program.

Ms. Elizabeth J. Hudson, EPA's senior official for Research and Development in the Research Triangle Park, said of the program, "Minority students are under-represented in science and related fields.

To correct this situation, we need to start early - at the high school level - by exposing these students to exciting research programs, hoping to interest them in careers in science.

Fortunately, Shaw University, a school known for its innovative curriculum development, will guide us in this endeavor.

Students selected from Wake Schools this year were: Devin N. Cofield, Tiffany R. Greene, Crystal L. Faison, Cameron R. Morris, Asha K. Pai, Shiwanda R. Pettway, Tara E. Robinson, Kristan M. Shorter, Stanley B. Richards, Capricia N. Townes, and Auni M. Khatri.
