

Bighouse likes what he sees so far

By CRAIG T. GREENLEE Chronicle Sports Editor

Four games don't make a season. But for Winston-Salem State basketball coach Clarence "Bighouse" Gaines, the signs are there that his Rams will be in position to make some noise in the CIAA in '91-'92.

Why such optimism for a team that is 2-2 with three games left to play for the '91 portion of the campaign?

For starters, the Rams turned in a gutsy road performance against Virginia State, losing by a basket, 67-65. The significance of the VSU game is that the Trojans recently upended Virginia Union in Richmond. Union is the preseason pick to win the national championship.

Also consider that Winston blitzed a Bowie State team (98-84) that whipped Hampton, 88-86 in overtime on Monday night.

"After doing a lot of experimenting, I feel we're just about on track," Gaines said. "For the first time in four years, we have an inside game and an outside game. Now it's a matter of getting more of our shots to drop."

More consistent shooting spells trouble for Winston's remaining opposition. Michael Eaton has shown that he's ready to assume much of the outside shooting responsibility. Tyson McMorries has also displayed enough offensive prowess to make Gaines smile.

But what really excites Bighouse these days is the abundance of inside talent he now has on

Please see Page B2

Photo by Max Dunhill The Rams are at the break-even point for now. But in listening to coach Bighouse Gaines, you get the feeling that the Rams won't give him as many reasons to scowl as much as he has in recent seasons.

Lady Rams off to quick start

By Chronicle Staff

For a team that was only looking to keep its head above water, Winston-Salem State's Lady Rams are making a strong case for themselves as legitimate contenders in the CIAA's Southern Division.

Coach Stenson Conley's squad is making a few ripples among the conference ranks. Winston's women are 4-1 overall and undefeated in league play at 4-0.

In a word, the Lady Rams are vastly improved in several facets of the game. At presstime, Winston was third offensively at 75 ppg. Their field goal accuracy is decent at 40.1 percent.

But the ladies are even better when they shoot from long range

- 42.1 percent from three-point distance makes them the CIAA co-leaders in that department with Hampton University. Conley's crew is also establishing itself as one of the better free throw shooting teams in league circles (63.8 percent at the charity stripe is No. 2 among conference teams).

Winston gets plenty of firepower at guard and forward. Forward Bobbi Fluellyn ranks among the league leaders in three-point goals made per game (1.8 is second-best in the CIAA) and threepoint field goal shooting (38.9 percent).

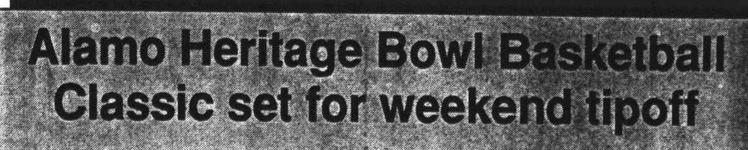

Guard Tracey Bobbitt doesn't take as many shots, but she makes them count when she does (60 percent). Bobbitt is also hitting 1.5 tres per game.

The front line is highly productive so far with center Angela Courtney and Fluellyn holding down the fort in good fashion. Courtney continues her dominating play in the paint, averaging 14.5 points and 10.3 rebounds a game.

Fluellyn has complimented Courtney by contributing 14 points and 9.5 rebounds a night. Yolanda Collette has proven to be a valuable addition for WSSU, shooting 51.2 percent from the field.

Offense isn't the only noticeable difference for Winston this season. Defense is a major reason why the ladies are winning with such regularity. Opponents are finding it difficult to get the shots

Please see Page B2

By Chronicle Staff

Winston-Salem State's Rams will get a taste of the deepest part of the Deep South

Florida Atlantic University, is ings, see "Tournament Draw" just one of the many festivities associated with the Alamo Heritage Bowl football game featuring North Carolina A&T and below

Florida Atlantic The Owls have drawn

Tournament Draw

Saturday Morris Brown College vs. Florida Atlantic, 6:30 p.m. Clark/Atlanta University vs. Winston-Salem State, 8:30 p.m.

> Sunday Consolation game, 1 p.m. Championship game, 3 p.m.

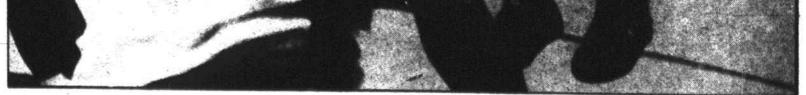

Photo by Max Dunhill Tracey Bobbitt lets it fly from long distance for the Lady Rams whose long distance shooting percentage is better than their regular shooting precentage.