NCNW offers Starwalk dinner, theater

Members of the Winston-Salem chapter of the National Council of Negro Women will participate in a "Starwalk" before their dinner and theater on Saturday, June 20 at 6:30 p.m. at the Shilohian Center, 1125 Highland Ave. Through the Starwalk, NCNW rewards members of their group who make things happen.

Following the awards program, dinner will be served and prepared by the Shaw Food Services while guests watch the play, "Rock-a-Buy-Buy-Baby," written by Cynthia R. Bailey, and directed by Junious Leak.

For reservations or tickets call 723-3314.

The donation is $20 per ticket and special rates are available for groups, children and students.

The Black Family Reunion Cookbook will also be available for $15.95. A discount of $3 off will be applied to the original price with purchase of the ticket to the dinner and theater.

The National Council of Negro Women encourages local groups to bestow honor on their high achievers. This year, along with the annual fundraiser, NCNW will recognize individuals and groups that helped carry out council projects. The names of the other stars who will be recognized are Sandra Stinson, Maxine

PREVENT THE UNTHINKABLE.

Last year's disasters were the most devastating in the history of Red Cross disaster relief. Our disaster relief funds are gone. And we still haven't faced the spring floods or tornadoes we know are coming. We must raise millions immediately. To make sure we're able to provide the relief victims count on. To expect less of the Red Cross is unthinkable. Please help.
