Fashion Show Features Full-Figured Women

Fashion lovers, full-figured women, the curious and their friends flocked to the File-Goodwin Enrichment Center at Mount Zion Baptist Church on Oct. 18 at 6 p.m. to learn of the "Brewing Elegance in the World of Fashion for Full-Figured Women."

This was the 4th annual full-figured fashion show.

The show was sponsored in loving memory of the late Janie Thomas by her daughters Flonnie Anderson, Lena Crowder, and Jeannette Lewis, and members of their families. Jeannette Lewis coordinated the show, and proceeds from the show were given to the building fund of the church.

Jeannette Lewis presided over an evening that began with an opening prayer by Dr. Serenus T. Churn Sr., pastor.

Prior to the beginning of the show, Lena and Rayonette Crowder paid tribute to Mrs. Thomas on behalf of the family.

Models wore apparel in five different categories. In Scene I, George Johnson Jr. described models who were dressed in Sunday wear.

In Scene II, Carl Cloud III described models who paraded in sports and casual wear. This display was followed by fashion tips by Kristy Franklin.

Rudy Anderson Jr. was the narrator, as models came down the runway dressed in After Five, formal wear. Tracie Mitchell ended the section with comments about attire available at the Audrey Jones Shop in Hanes Mall.

George Johnson Jr. returned as narrator in Scene IV as models gracefully passed before the audiences in Fall and Winter coat wear.

After an intermission and the awarding of door prizes by Lena Crowder, models participated in the final scene wearing African attire with Purity Ruchago as narrator and Dr. and Mrs. Serenus T. Churn seated on the stage dressed in Royal Kenyan attire. Models paraded before them and the audience with attire from Kenya, Africa.

Models in the show from Mount Zion Church were: Hazel Brown, Lovie Cooper, Dr. and Mrs. Churn, Danetta Fitts, Beulah Hairston, Joyce Hicks, Lettie Holland, Brenda Kelly, Jeannette Lewis, Rose Lindsay, Zola Paul, Helen Peters, Marjorie Plowden and Vernie H. Shaw.

Guest models were Flonnie Anderson, Andrea Bush, Catherine Franklin, Josephine Gwynn, Shirley Holloway, Helen Horton, Barbara Massey, Ann Moye, Ester Rockett, Avis Sewell and Wilma Wheeler.

Fashions were furnished by The Audrey Jones Shop in Hanes Mall, Ervin's Boutique on Patterson Avenue, The African Crafts Shop on Sprague Street, and by a number of the models.

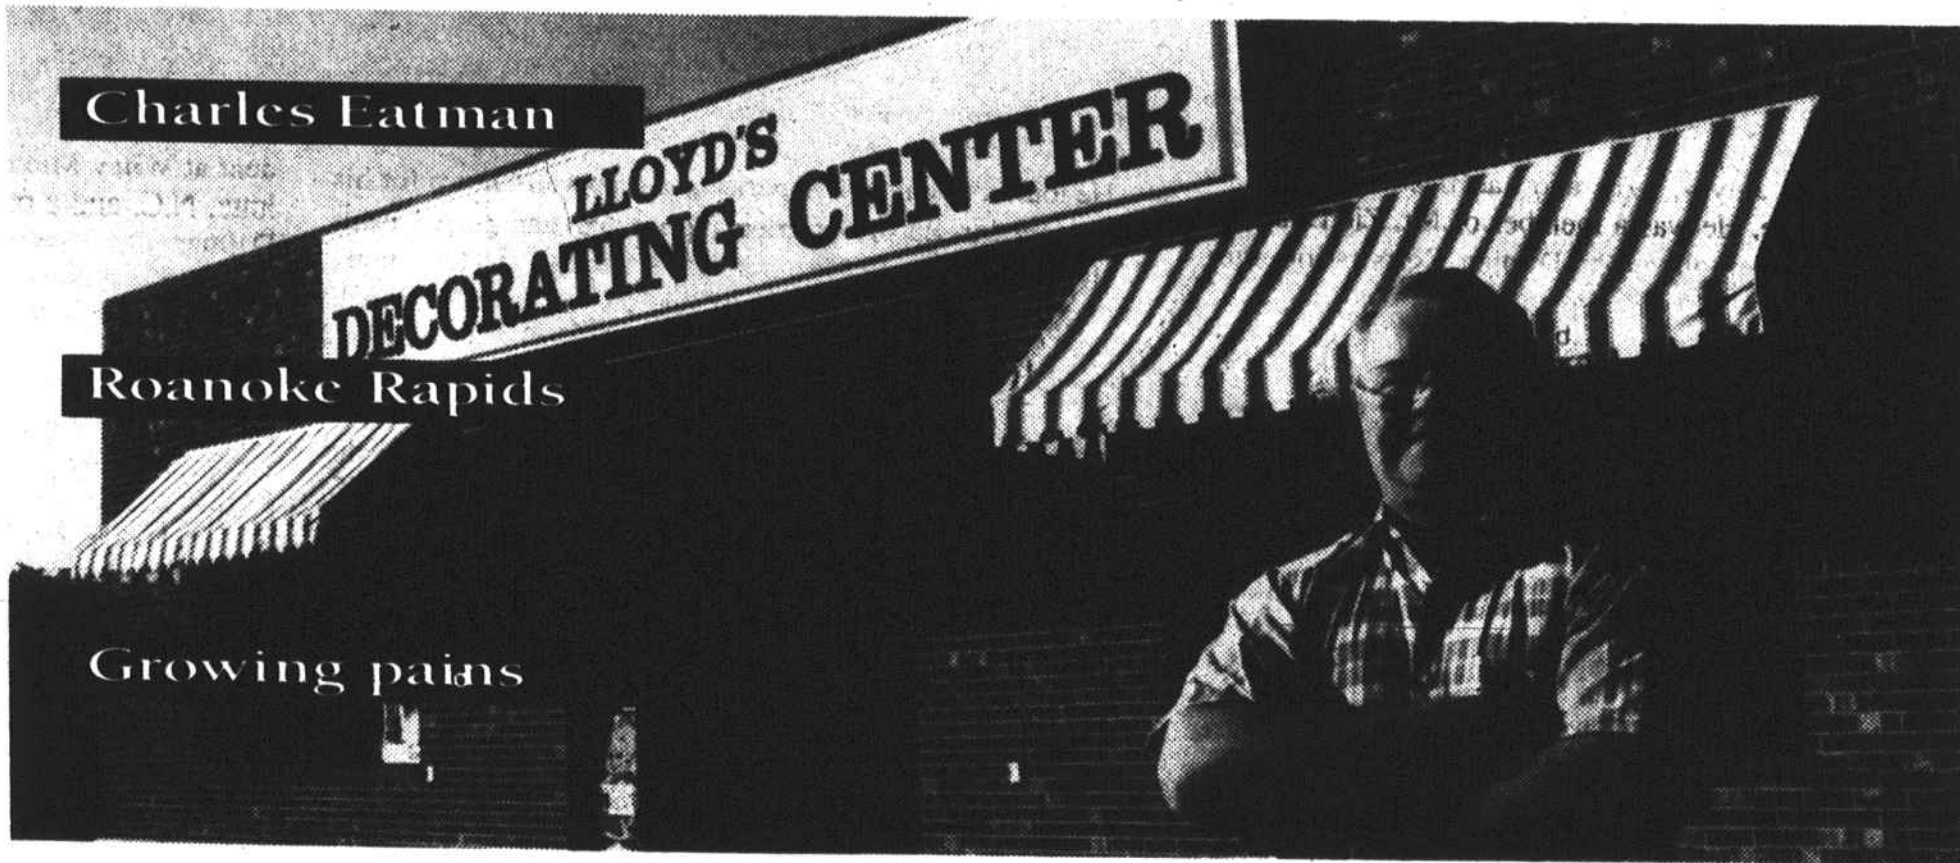

Models were assisted on the runway by Albert Anderson Sr. and Mica Anderson. Models in formal attire were escorted by Tyrone Gwynn.

Daria Rhodes, Precious Anderson, Rhonda White, LaSheka Witherspoon, Donielle Rhodes and Sherman Hancock served as ushers.

The wardrobe mistresses were Diedre Anderson, Debra Anderson, Allana Jeffries, Micha Jeffries, Rayonette Crowder, Goldia Anderson, Romaine Cathey, and Shirley Grier. Lee Council Grier transported clothing to the show.

Kristy Franklin was the make-up artist, Leon Davenport furnished fashion show music, and Connie Fletcher's Catering Service and the Valeria Dove special Treats Shop furnished refreshments for the fellowship period following the show.

Construction loan

When he sold paint for a major manufacturer, he spent a lot of time on the road. And all along, he knew exactly where he was headed: to a small North Carolina town where he could settle in with his own business.

For years, he looked for the right opportunity. And when Lloyd's became available, Charles became the owner.

Things went well. Very well. In fact, the time soon came when he needed a bigger building.

And so he dropped by Centura Bank. He had a talk with people who knew him, who knew what he was capable of doing. People who had the power to approve his loan quickly and painlessly.

Which they did. Which means, in turn, that people all over Roanoke Rapids can happily paint the town red. Or whatever color they choose.

If you, too, would like to do business with a bank where local people make local decisions, come to our home office. It's in your hometown.
