Felder to Speak at Winston-Salem State University

One of the nation's foremost biblical scholars will be the guest speaker at Winston-Salem State University's final program on religion and ethics at 10 a.m. on April 23 in the Albert H. Anderson Center.

Cain Hope Felder, the author of the ground-breaking study, Troubling Biblical Waters: Race, Class and Family, is professor of New Testament Language and Literature at Howard University's School of Divinity, where he is editor of The Journal of Religious Thought.

Felder is also the founder and chairman of the Biblical Institute for Social Change in Washington.

He is one of nearly 30 African Americans with a doctorate in theology and part of a new movement by black Bible scholars who advocate a theological interpretation of biblical scholarship that puts into perspective the African presence in the Bible.

As the editor of the 1991 book, Stony the Road We Trod: African American Biblical Interpretation, Felder presents the writings of 11 African-American contributors who ascribe to an African-centered approach to understanding biblical history.

Felder served on the faculty of Princeton Theology Seminary for three years before joining Howard University in 1981. An ordained elder, he was pastor of Grace United Methodist Church in New York from 1975 to 1977. In the late 1960s and early 1970s, Felder was national director of the United Methodists' Black Caucus in Atlanta.

Felder holds a bachelor's degree in philosophy and classics from Howard; a master's of divinity from Union Theological Seminary in New York; a diploma in theology from Oxford University, Mansfield College, in England; a master's of philosophy and a doctorate in biblical language and literature from Columbia University. He has traveled widely and has written many articles in scholarly periodicals. He has a reading knowledge of eight foreign languages.

After eight years of research, his book, Troubling Biblical Waters: Race, Class and Family, was published by Orbis Books in April 1989 and immediately gained recognition as a landmark and ground-breaking study. Stony the Road We Trod: African American Biblical Interpretation, published by Fortress Press in spring 1991, is in its record-breaking fourth printing.

His newest book is The Season of Lent, recently released by Fortress.

14th Pastoral Anniversary Celebration

Essie C. McCullough, pastor and founder of New Direction Movement Cathedral, will celebrate her 14th pastoral anniversary April 18-25. Sunday services are at 4 p.m. Weekday services will be held at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

McCullough is the daughter of the Rev. Annie B. Carthron. She is a secretary at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., where she works in the Promotions Department. She is the wife of Alex McCullough. They have three children, Amanda Burch, Alex McCullough and Audreana McCullough. She has six grandchildren.

McCullough began her ministry at the church, then called J.A.C.

Memorial Chapel, on Patterson Avenue, with her sister, Evangelist Sarah C. Hauser. The church was named after their father, the late James Aaron Coleman. Because of a growing membership, the church was moved to its present location, 626 Monmouth St. Years later, the name of the church was changed to New Direction Movement Cathedral, where the motto is "The Least is the Greatest."

Two churches have been founded from the ministry: Revelations of Faith, where Sarah C. Hauser is pastor and founder, and True Victory Enrichment Center, which shelters the homeless, where

Pastor Essie C. McCullough

Daniel R. Coleman is pastor and founder.

Heart & Estrogen/Progestin Replacement Study

We are looking for women who have heart disease to participate in a new study — one of the first national studies for and about women with heart disease.

The Section on Cardiology of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Wake Forest University, is one of 15 centers across the country conducting this vital research on post menopausal women with heart disease. This study will test whether or not a combination of hormone replacement will be helpful to women with heart disease.

If you are past menopause, have coronary heart disease, and are interested in helping with this research, please call:
