Cuncho Brown and Josh Henighan, both of Parkland High School, made All-Central Piedmont.

Mike Floyd and Darrell Johnson attend Glenn High School. Floyd is one of the top 50 high school players in North Carolina.

Otis Attucks and Brian Hauser attend Carver High School. Attucks made All 4-A Metro.

Linwood Skinner of Reynolds High School made All-Central Piedmont and All-Northwest.

Anthony Caldwell attends Mt. Tabor High School.

Vincent Scott, formerly of Dudley, who presently attends Oak Hill Academy, is the only player not from Winston-Salem.

"This team has made a name nationally for itself, and the college scouts are hot on the trail," Butler said.

Butler is also head basketball coach at North Forsyth. He is assisted by Daryl Napper, Garnell Foster and Gene Malloy.

The Lakers were put in the strongest pool of the Best 16 of the 17 and under AAU teams in the nation, including teams from New Jersey, Tennessee and Alabama.

Winston-Lake won the pool and advanced to the final four with Winston Lake defeating Boo Williams, the National 17 and under AAU champions last year by a score of 75-73 in the semi-finals.

Scoring points for Winston Lake were: Darrell Johnson-20; Mike Floyd-16; Dameon Foster-10; and Josh Pittman-10.

The Lakers' defense held Iverson, the number one high school player in the nation, to 19 points.

The Lakers then lost to the Tennessee Travelers in the finals. Their record stands at 15 and 4.

"We beat the number one team in the nation, Boo Williams, out of Virginia," Butler said.

"We will play in the 17 and under AAU nationals here in Winston-Salem on July 16-24 at the Lawrence Joel Coliseum and coliseum annex, which is the number one recruiting event for college basketball coaches," he said.

Butler said the team is currently functioning independent of the YMCA. To make a contribution to the team representing Winston-Salem in the national tournament, forward all donations in care of William Butler at 3260 Shaftesbury Lane. He can be reached at 724-0860.

Top College Recruits Square Off

Jeff McInnis and Keith Booth, two of the nation's top college basketball recruits, measured up against the competition during the Annual McDonald's All-American High School Basketball Game held recently in Memphis.

The high school seniors now rank among the game's greatest recruits at the college level.

McInnis and Booth join a list of "who's who," including Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing and Shaquille O'Neal, who were former members of the team.

Proceeds from this year's event will benefit the Ronald McDonald House in Memphis, a home-away-from-home for families of seriously ill children being treated at nearby hospitals.
