

Books Come in "All Flavors" at the Forsyth County Library

There are books for all tastes at the Forsyth County Public Library--and this summer, these tasty books come in all flavors!

Beginning June 14, children of all ages are invited to participate in the Summer Reading Program: "Books Come in All Flavors." As children sign up for the program, they receive special bookmarks and badges. Readers who complete at least ten picture books or five chapter books by July 31 earn a reading certificate and a coupon from Pizza Hut.

Children may read books that interest them. Whether they choose Nutty Buddy Humor or Mocha Chip Mystery, Pistachio Poetry or Hot Fudge History, readers can lick the summertime blues. Kids can double-dip into adventures or fantasy, discovering new worlds in books.

There is a whole menu of activities sprinkled around the libraries, too! Each of the nine branch libraries and the main library will kick off summer reading with special programs during the week of June 14. In Clemmons, Burns and Company will perform magic and ventriloquism; personalities from radio station "Power 97" in Greensboro will be on hand at the East Winston Branch; kids at the Reynolda Manor Branch will silkscreen t-shirts. Steve Kissell, the Imaginary Man, will start things off in Kernersville, Lewisville, Rural

Hall and the Southside and Thruway Branches. Contact the library nearest you to find dates and times for all programs.

Kids will be amazed and excited all summer long with flavorful story times, movies, craft activities, puppet shows and special guests. The summer will end as tastefully as it began with a county-wide ice cream social. All summer readers are invited to attend the social at 10:00 a.m. on Saturday, July 31, at the Main Library. There will be entertainment, activities and a cone-full of ice cream for everyone. McDonald's restaurants and Dairy Fresh will co-sponsor the ice cream social.

Several businesses are spicing up the summer reading program this year. Coupons and prizes have been contributed by Los Amigos, Taco Bell, Burger King, Intimate Book Shop and Po' Folks for participants in the Summer Reading Program.

Over 3,000 Forsyth County children participated in the summer reading program last year, reading thousands of books. The summer reading program offers fun and learning for children of all ages.

So drip, uh, drop by your local public library and scoop up some good books this summer!

Diggs Gallery Opens Three Exhibits

On Saturday, July 24, from 5:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m., Diggs Gallery is hosting an Opening Reception for three exhibitions:

Paintbrush Diplomacy: Children's Art From the Americas

Space Summoning: Recent Work by Vandrom Hinnant

Sweeping Heaven: Janet Dubois & LaVon Van Williams, Jr.

Paintbrush Diplomacy, an organization fostering international communication among children of the world, was founded in 1972 by Char and Rudy Pribuss, a couple from California. They believe that "The artwork of school children deserves better treatment than being hung on refrigerators with fruit-shaped magnets," and that exchanging art among children of different cultures could make the world a better place.

Children's Art from the Americas is the result of this cultural exchange and focuses on the works by children from the American continents, including Argentina, Brazil, Peru, Chile, Bolivia, Costa Rica, Panama, Ecuador, Jamaica, Haiti, Trinidad, Mexico, the USA, Canada and more. Organized by Paintbrush Diplomacy and SITES, the exhibition addresses the diversity which exists among these cultures, emphasizing their similarities and differences. The exhibition also attempts to demonstrate the impact of the European influence on these cultures and touches upon the assimilation of various ethnic groups which comprise the American continent.

Space Summoning is an exhibit of paintings, drawings and constructions by Vandrom Hinnant of Greensboro. Hinnant attended A&T in Greensboro and has exhibited throughout North Carolina, notably the North Carolina Museum of Art, as well as South Carolina, Virginia, Florida, Atlanta, Georgia, Boston, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. His work is in both private and public collections, such as NCNB, Duke University Medical Center, Atlanta International Airport and N.C. A&T State University.

Sweeping Heaven: Janet Dubois and LaVon Van Williams, Jr. In conjunction with the National Black Theatre Festival, Diggs Gallery will be hosting this exhibit by Janet Dubois and LaVon Van Williams, Jr. Dubois is an internationally recognized actress best known for her role as the sassy, lovable neighbor "Willona" on the hit CBS comedy series "Good Times," and who is also known for her paintings. She has exhibited in Atlanta and Houston and is an honored participant of the N.B.T.F. Dubois was most recently in Winston-Salem for her starring role in "And Still I Rise."

LaVon Van Williams, Jr. lives in Lexington, Kentucky. He has designed the logo used by the National Black Theatre Festival since the Festivals inception. Williams was featured in a 1991 exhibit at Diggs Gallery. This upcoming exhibit will feature his most recent work. Through his vigorous wood carvings, Williams illustrates the boldness, exuberance and vitality of African-American life and culture.

In conjunction with the exhibits, Diggs Gallery will host the following programs:

Opening Reception: Saturday, July 24, 5:00 - 7:00 p.m.

Artists Talk with Vandrom Hinnant: Saturday, July 24, 7:00 p.m. (immediately following reception)

Artists talk with LaVon Van Williams, Jr.: Sunday, July 25, 3:00 p.m.

Lecture on Children's Art and Multiculturalism - date and time to be announced Diggs Gallery is available for group tours, scheduled in advance. It is free and open to the public Tuesday - Saturday, 11:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. For more information call 750-2458.

Adventure Camping

Tired of the usual vacation at the beach? Looking for an activity to get the kids away from the Nintendo this summer?

Camp may be just the "adventure" you're looking for! Imagine evenings spent around a camp fire and sleeping under the stars somewhere in the wilderness of the National Forest. Everyday adventures include rock climbing, rappelling, canoeing, kayaking, caving, mountain biking, backpacking and hiking.

Camping is not just for fun, it teaches youth how to survive "comfortably" in the wilderness while having fun, and to return home with increased confidence and memories to last a lifetime. Wilderness camping promotes the development of positive leadership, self-confidence and self-esteem as well as teamwork and cooperation among the participants. The experiences are designed to test physical limits and endurance while having fun and developing a mature and responsible mental attitude.

Camps offering adventure activities, incorporated with classes on nature, first aid, fire by friction, edible plants, survival and more, provide a rewarding as well as an educational experience.

When selecting a camp, there are many considerations, not the least of which is the experience and reputation of the camp and its counselors. Does the camp provide all the equipment? What about meals--are they nutritious and well-prepared? What is the counselor/camper ratio? Are groups co-ed? Does the camp offer shuttle service from the nearest airport or other site? What is the cost, how is it paid and what discounts are available?

Camping is a wonderful alternative to spending the summer indoors and hanging around the neighborhood. It offers kids the opportunity to meet new friends, enjoy new challenges and bring back memories that will never be forgotten!
